Can you believe it has been this long since the first time you called me "Cutie" in Biology? And do you remember Roxying our hands and faces at the library? I've never laughed so much in my entire life! It seems like just yesterday when we lost that debate. Mr. Madrazo has a thing about putting us together, doesn't he? I'm gonna trip when we dance together. With us always ending up together, I think it was preplanned and it's inevitable for us to be together. So why change fate - at this rate Mr. Madrazo will have us married before July. But I wouldn't complain. I'll never forget all the good times we've had together and I'll hope for more to come. I'm sure you know how deep and extensive my feelings are for you. You are the kind of person I've always imagined myself being in love with. I wish that my time in N.C. wasn't limited because I'd give anything to be able to see you play for Duke. You are a very good athlete and you always reach your goals, so be sure and set high ones and you'll go far in life, but not too far away from me, please. Once you set your mind to something and you are determined to get it, you'll win, and don't settle for anything less than the best! Life has got alot of good things to give you and I don't want you to miss out on any of them. I know you'll do fine at Duke, because you can fit in any where you go - you've got a sort of magnetism in your personality that doesn't turn anyone off. I wish I was a senior so I could graduate and go to Duke, then moving wouldn't matter. But you look for me in the fall of '78 cause I'll be there as a freshman - I'm determined to. I wouldn't trade anything thing for this past year because it has been great - and you've made it that way for me. I'll miss you more than you'll ever know when I go to ——, but I won't forget you; don't you ever think that I will, because I love you with all my heart, soul, and body and I don't care who knows, because I'm tired of keeping my love for you a secret (although I can count on one hand the people that don't know). I treasure every minute we've been together and I thank you for all the happiness you've given me, and I thank you for the opportunity to share part of your life. It hard for me to think of leaving Graham, my home, my friends, and my main man. Bumg with you these past 6 or so months has opened up alot of new doors for me and one door leads to another, I guess, and once I open a door, I don't want to turn back - I want to continue on and experience everything I possibly can, and I want you to take me by the hand, and lead me through each one. I'll never forget things like "Rocky," and the float, and our "races" (I just let you win so you could have me - you're slow!) Mr. E and when you, Eric, my mother and I watched "Brian's Song." You still owe me a cake — I hope you know that. I got the bad end of that deal. It doesn't seem like such a long time since KMAS but alot of things have happened since then, and we've had a ball. I wish the Basketball team could've gone to the State, but the team, (especially you) gave it a 100% effort, and we're proud of you. Winning isn't all there is to the game, because even when you lose, you've still won when you can hold you're head high and say "I've given it all I've got and I'm a Devil and I'll always be a devil!" And don't you ever forget that no matter how far you are from Graham, because this is where you started out. This is where you got your first taste of VICTORY! And with you, you can never be filled, and are always looking for something else to conquer. I won't be happy until I see you playing football professionally because I know you've got it in you! You're physical talent never ceases to amaze me, because anyone who can carry me has got to be a stud!

You've got to promise me that you won't get to Duke and fall in love with some girl and break my heart, because you hold the key to it. Do good in your studies at college and have a good 4 years, because you only go around once. Give your best to everything you endeavor in and try to find time to write me. I'll try to see you play, but the next 3 years, I'll be able to watch you every game. We've come a long way, but we've still got alot of road to cover - but together we'll do it, because together we can do ANYTHING. You'll always have all of my heart and I'll be counting down the days until November 1, 1980! That'll be OUR day! I wish you all the luck in the world for the rest of your life and I hope I'll be there to share it with you. You've got to come see me more before I leave. It's funny how the two of us got started, when you stop and think about it, but I'll never forget those two words: "HELLO CUTIE" Because they've brought me all the happiness in the world. Be good and don't forget me next year - and please write... I'm serious as a heart attack! Don't forget that I love you, and I'll love you always. Don't get hurt in football and try to come see me in N.C. 'cause I'll be thinking about you the whole time. Be Cool! SNAP-SNAP-SNAP!

I Love Ya!

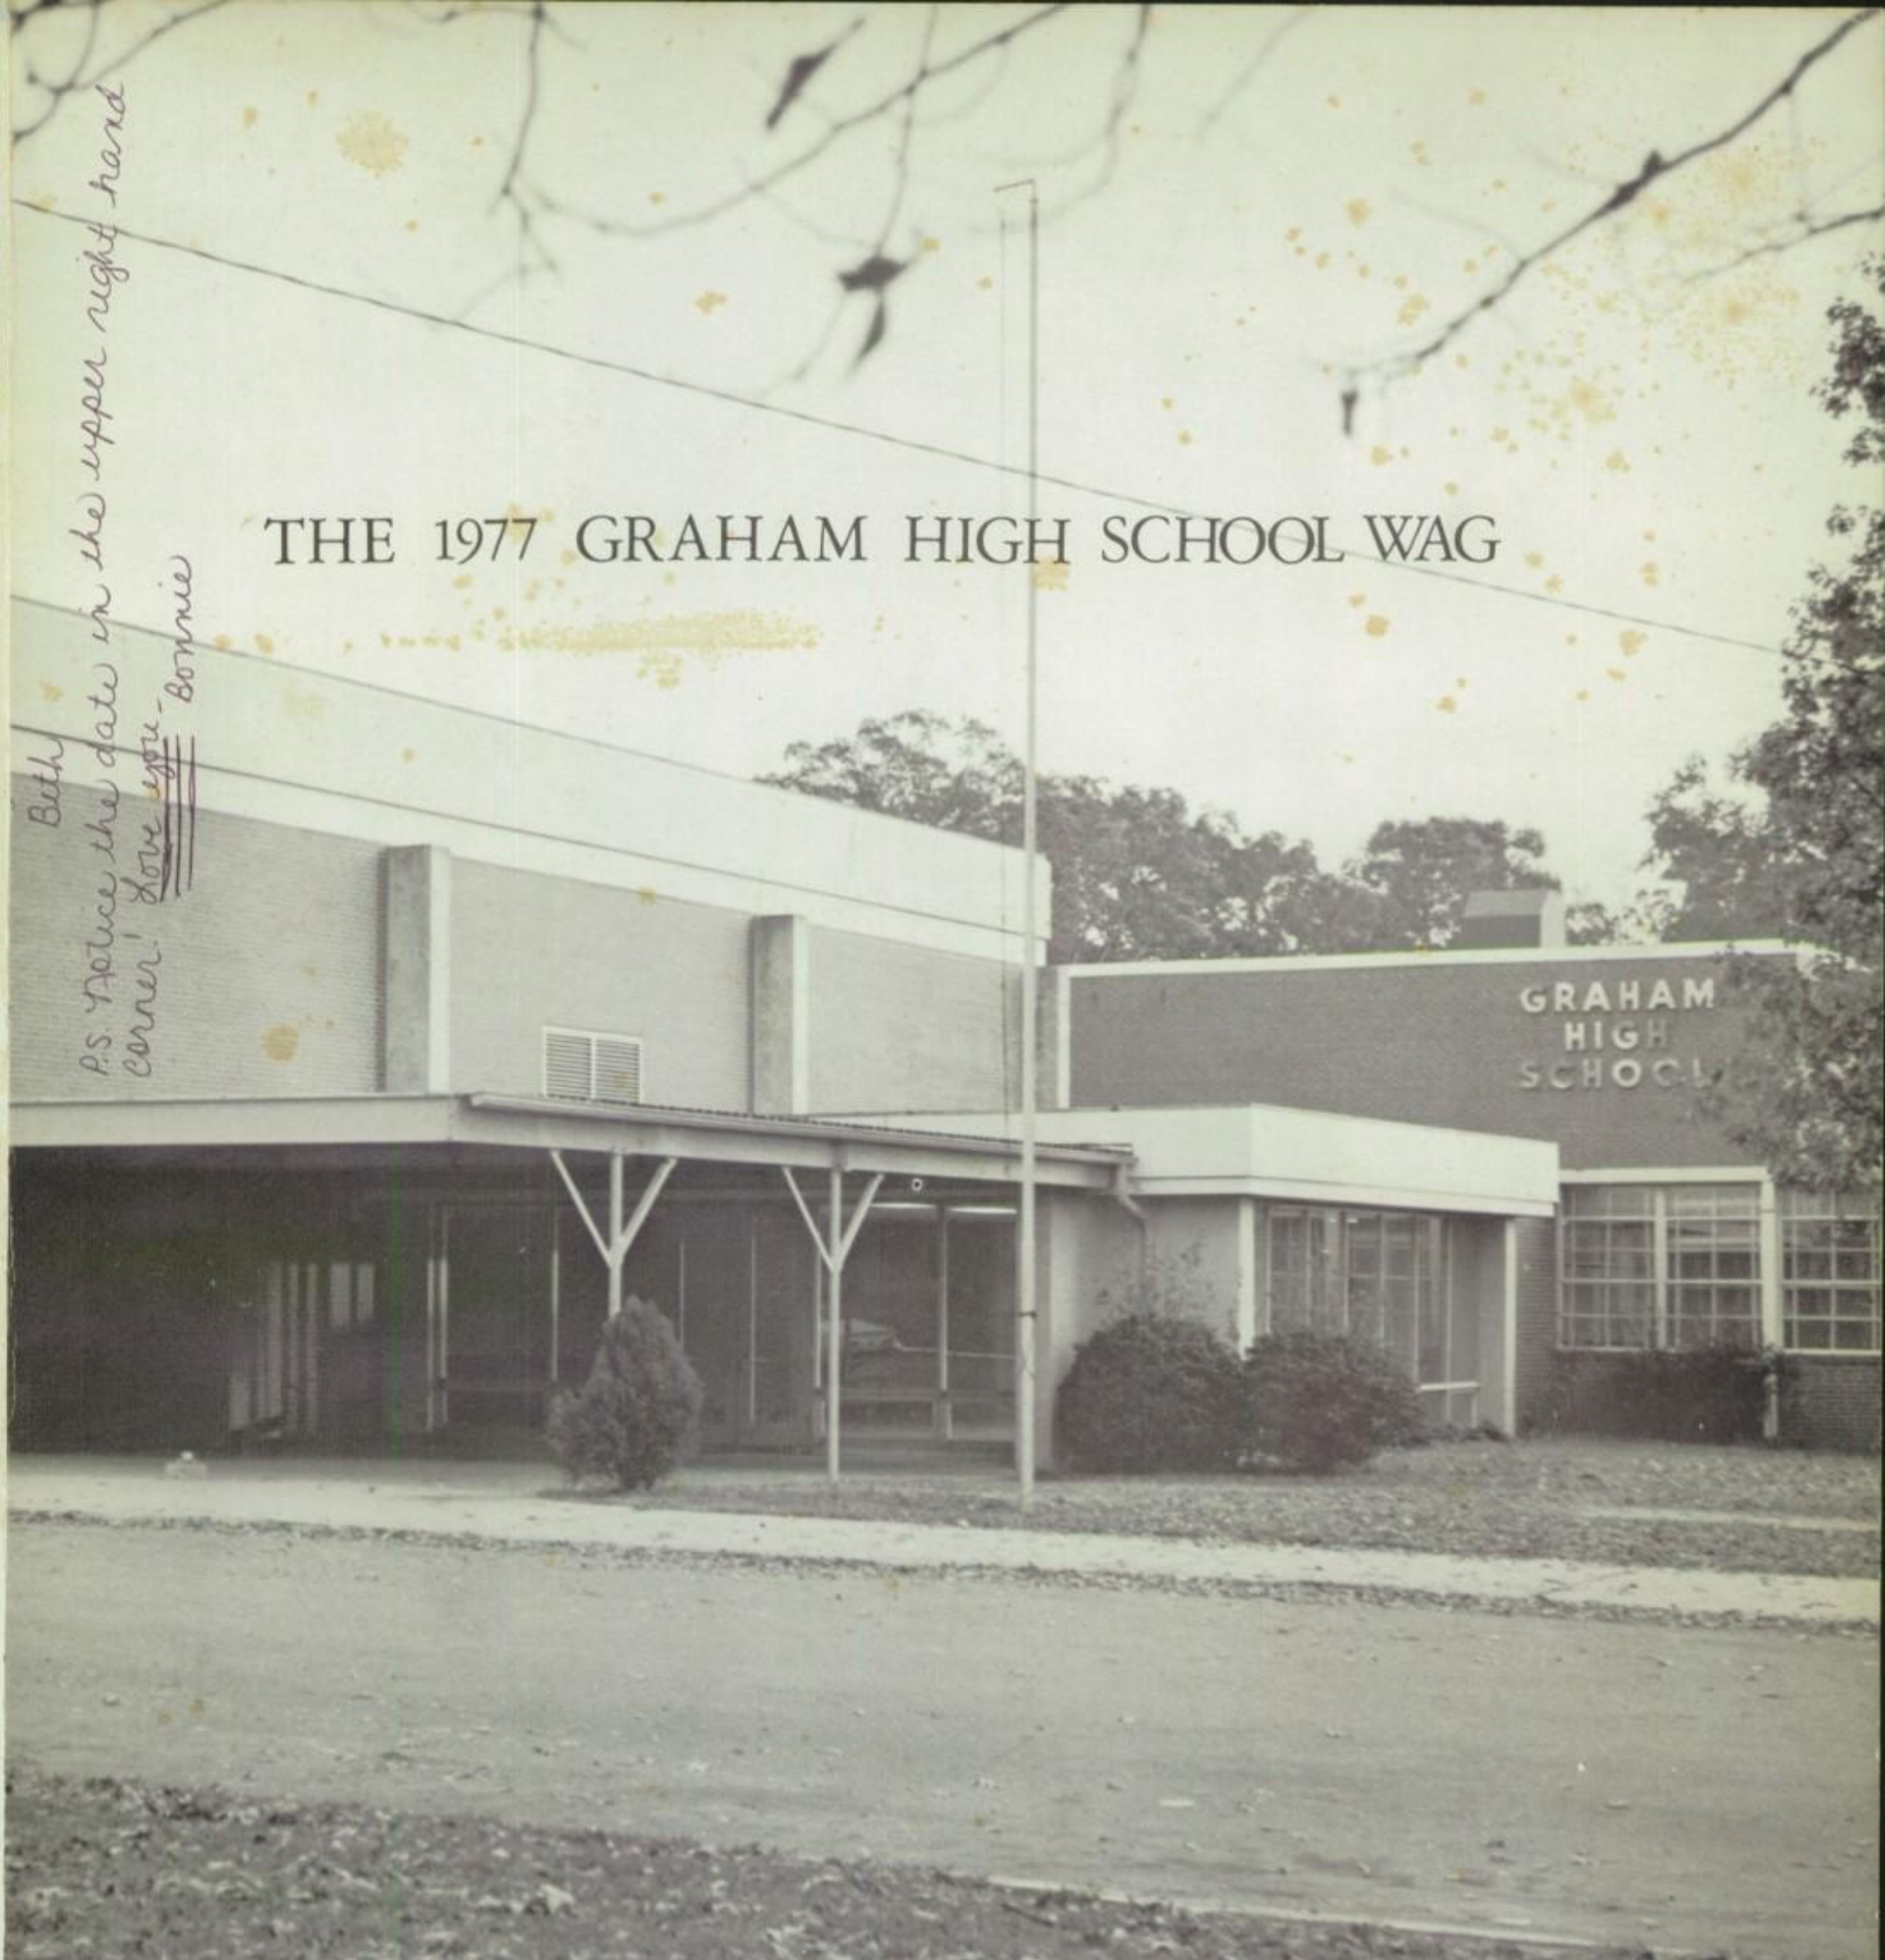
THE 1977 GRAHAM HIGH SCHOOL WAG



TROLLINGER ROAD, GRAHAM, N.C.

PRIME TIME PRIME TIME

In the beginning, our school had a mellow mood about it. It had a lazy temperament, plodding along, keeping up with its occupants. But Prime Time made the difference! The tempo picked up inside the students who were inside of the school itself, where the atmosphere ripened with a maturity yet to be seen at Graham High.

What made the 1976-77 school year so special from any other? The people, of course, each as individual as the next, each with good ideas to share, but more so, it was the students' attitudes all pulling together, wanting to better our school, not only in sports but in academics too. We found ourselves sticking together, standing up for our own personal views, striving for single goals. We were one, yet many.

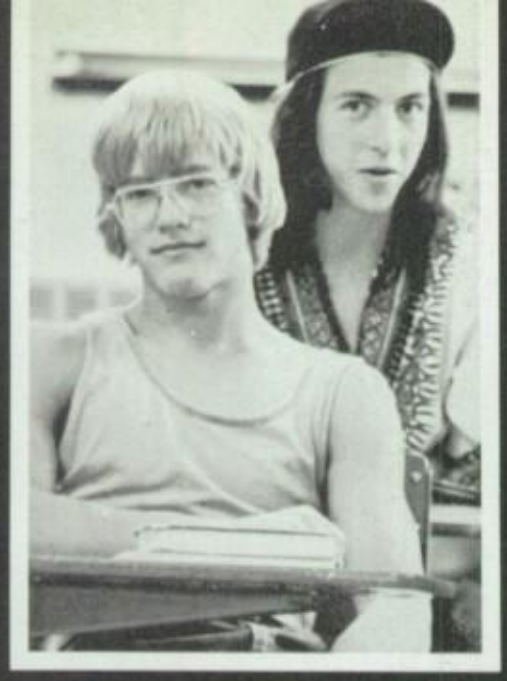
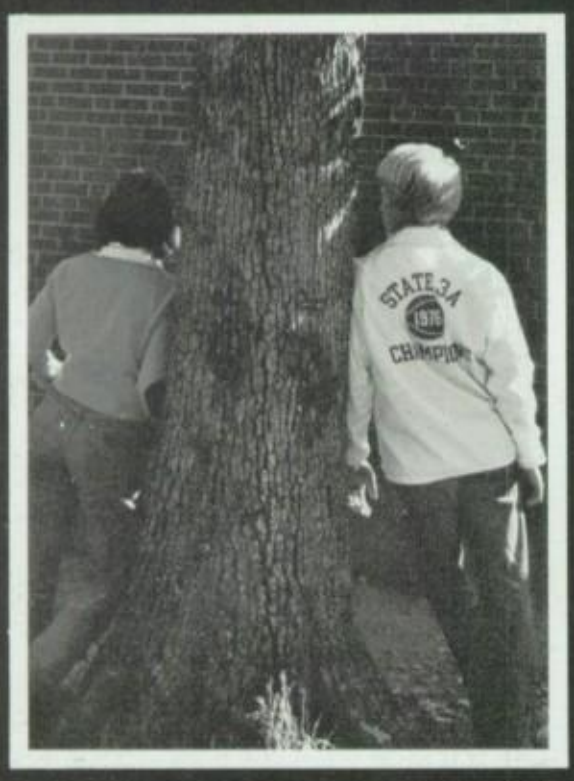
Prime Time was distinctive, with each class holding an important niche in our school society. Yes, next year there will be another graduating class and another crop of freshmen, but this year will remain untouched, uncaptured in some ways, and all-around unique . . . for this student body had the time, the willingness, the drive to endure a year of dreams, actualities, uncertainties, reflections, and impressions — forever reaching for the stars.





STUDENT LIFE

If you thought that being back in school was humdrum, think again! It's what you did with where you were that counted. Remember some of those good times that you had with fellow classmates! Campus life was interesting, yet trying in some ways . . . . .

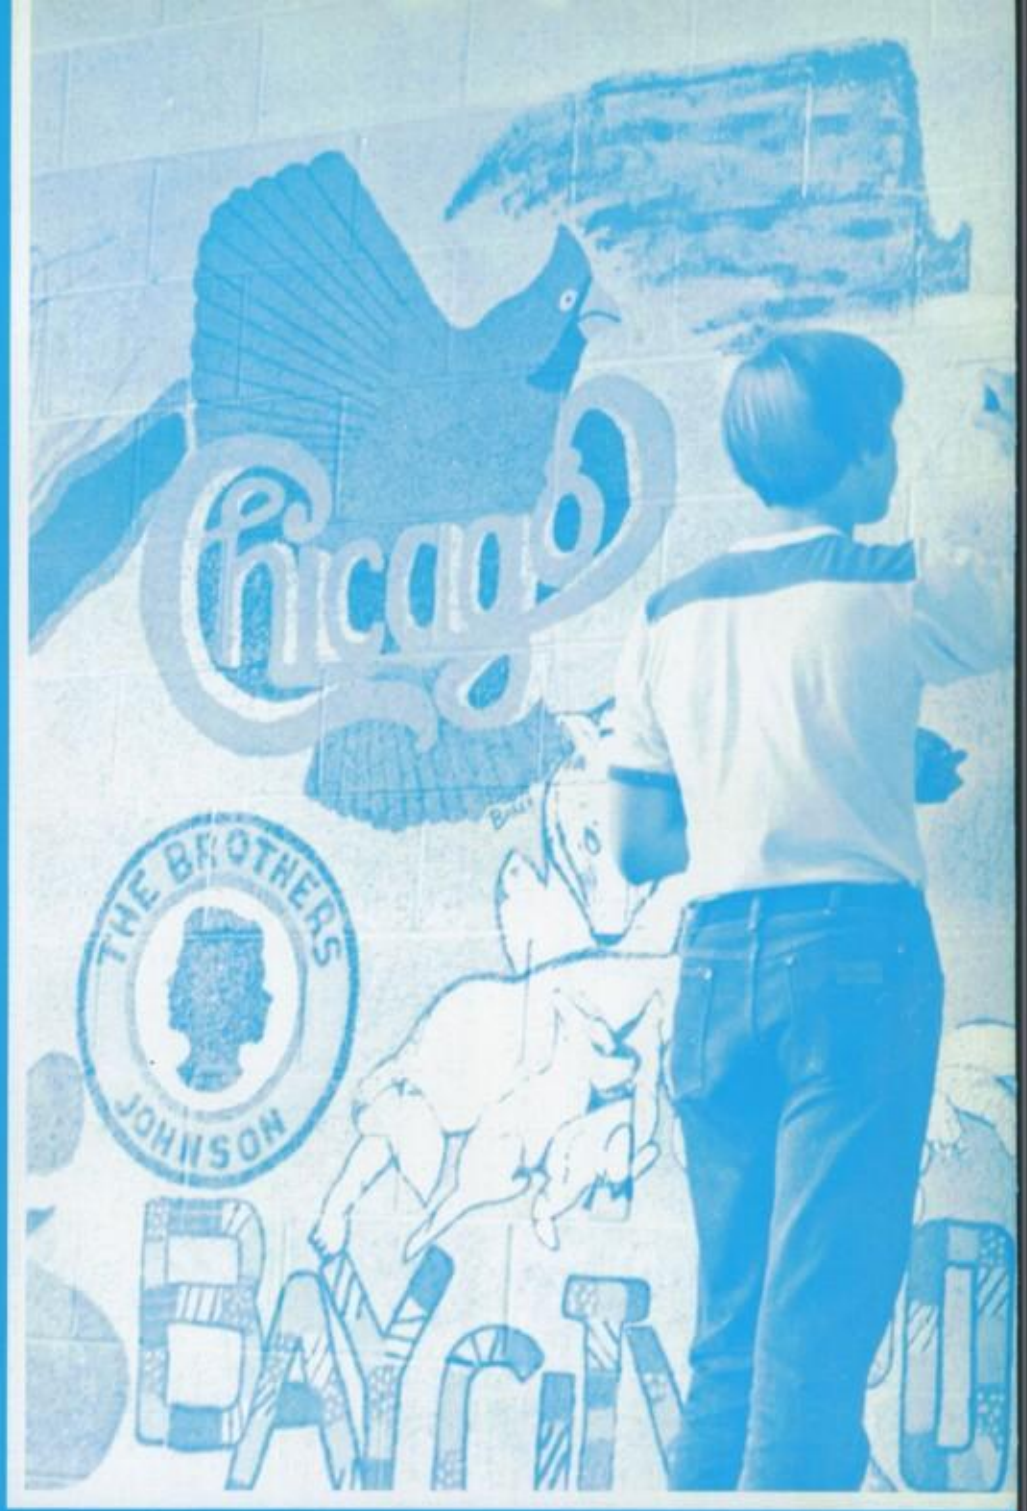
GHS: OUR HOME

Every day at GHS was different, bringing a new experience for each of us. We learned and grew and along with the normal growing pains, we faced problems and shared our joys together. However, not every day came up roses. All of us had "one of those days" every once in a while. Finding a parking space was always a daily task, for if we didn't have Nassau Control Base to "land" us, we were just plain out of luck! Let us not forget the lunch lines that were so long that we had varicose veins by the time we'd gotten our fruit punch and fries. In English, faking a book report on a book we hadn't EVEN read was a popular practice on those unexpected days when they were due. But what really broke our day was the assembly which labeled us maggots, and we had to survive the whole year as freshmen! Yes, there were some days that all we had to hang on to was "It could be worse." Now I'm not trying to say that out of the one hundred eighty days that we attended school (an eternity!) was just no fun! Heck no, that's not what student life was really like! Life on campus was usually bustling whether good or bad — we always had something going. Pep rallies were thrilling with each class trying to out shout each other for the Spirit Stick. With sports filling up most of our school lives, we took a lot of pride in backing our players. Live bands after homegames were perfect times to try out a new dance step, if we knew one. Dating also played a significant role in our student life. Meetings during break, passing notes between classes, cheering during the game or racing home from school with that special someone; just doing it together, made school bearable. Our school well known for its traditions: Spirit Week, Twirp Week, Miss GHS Pageant, and International Night, always offered something for us to attend or participate in. It was the students that made these occasions unique in themselves, and it was the students that molded the school into the image we desired it to be. Our lifestyles at Graham High, our home away from home, will always recall sweet memories to us — for another year of high school life is now a prime experience in a corner of our minds.

AWAY FROM HOME

At Hardee's the lines aren't so long.

Mrs. Kimery patiently tries to figure out if Neal McRainey is trying to rip off the cafeteria.



Are You

Lunch

Are You What You Eat?

If so, everyone was in danger of becoming a French fry. Day after day millions were consumed along with those great soybean hamburgers. Well at least they were nutritious, and that was what was important. Right?

For the first time you could buy your lunch individually or altogether. You could buy French fries and no hamburger or no French fries and a sausage biscuit. If the whole thought of food turned you off, you could buy Jungle Juice.

No matter what was served, everyday there was a stampede to the cafeteria. Perhaps it was the new wall coverings that caused the rush. No, it's not ketchup splashed on the wall, but paint! Any day you could walk into the cafeteria and see Elton John, Brothers Johnson, or some other rock star in the process of being created by one of Mrs. Ruth's art students.

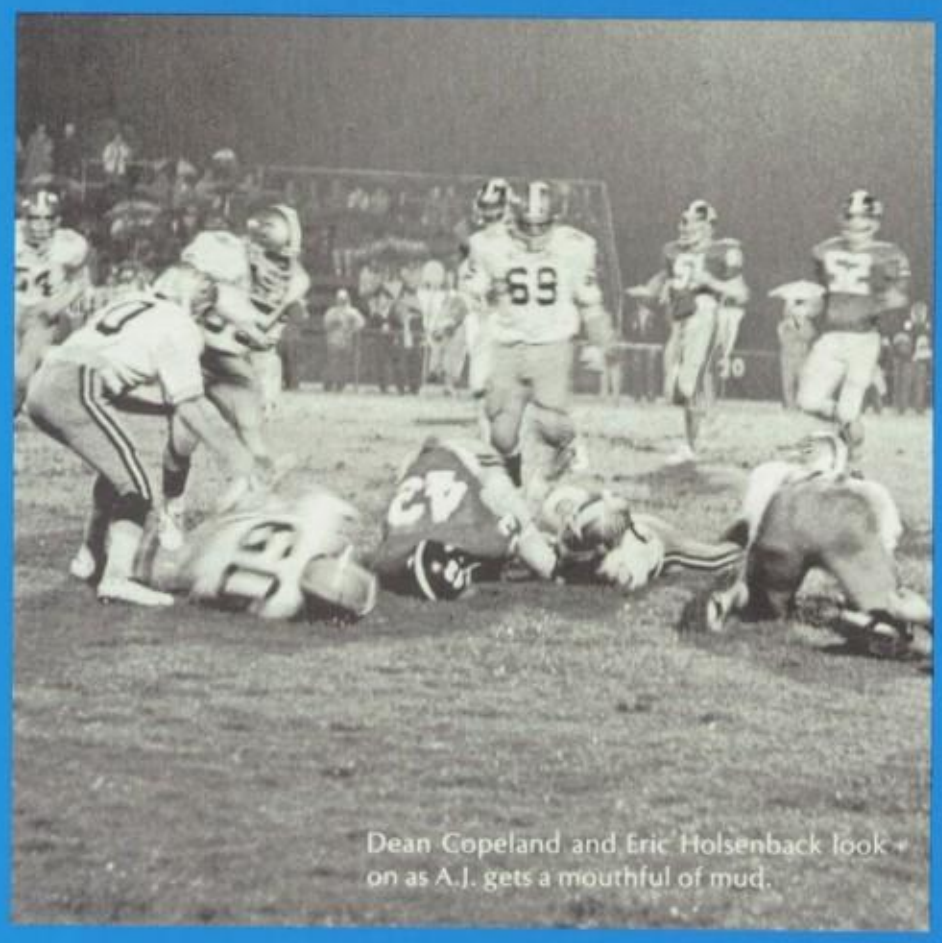
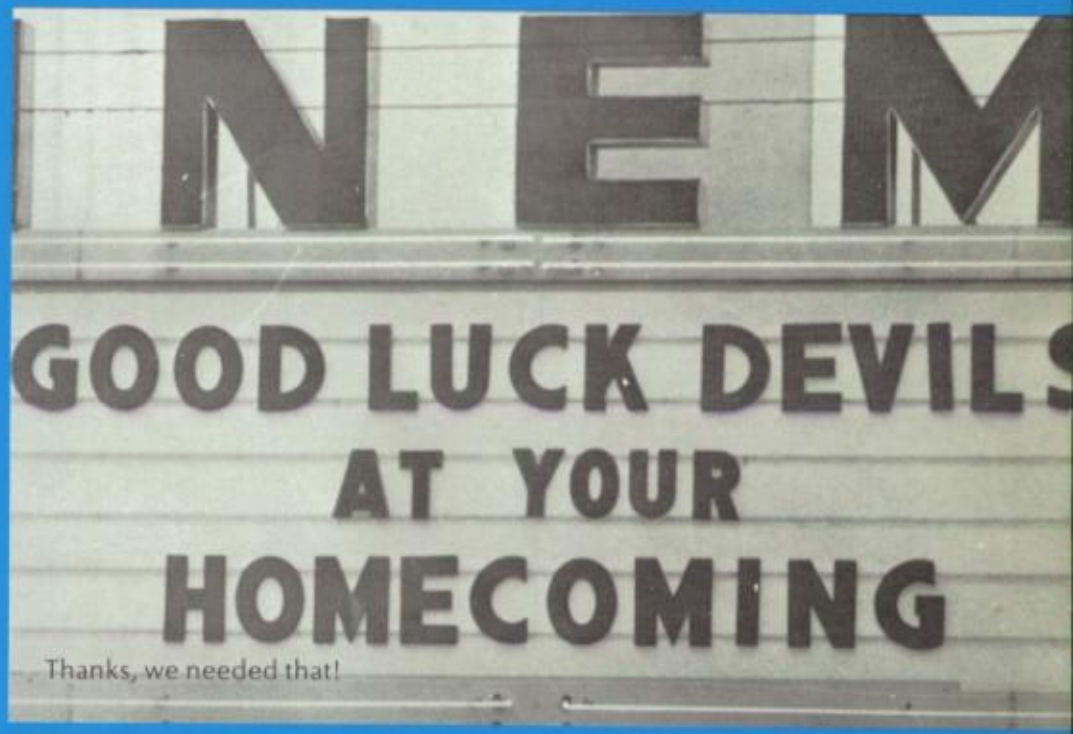
Beth Wightman and Freddie Foust wait in suspense before the new homecoming queen is announced.

Twas the night before homecoming and the sophomores wondered if they would ever finish in time for the parade.

Where's Noah



Dean Copeland and Eric Holsenback look on as A.J. gets a mouthful of mud.



Thanks, we needed that!

And The Ark?

It didn't rain for forty days and forty nights, but when homecoming came, so did the rain. Still many brave souls ventured into the wet weather for the game. Some wished they hadn't: "I've only been here two minutes, and I'm soaking wet!" "Why did I wear wool pants tonight?" "I don't care how many touchdowns we make, I'm not standing up!"

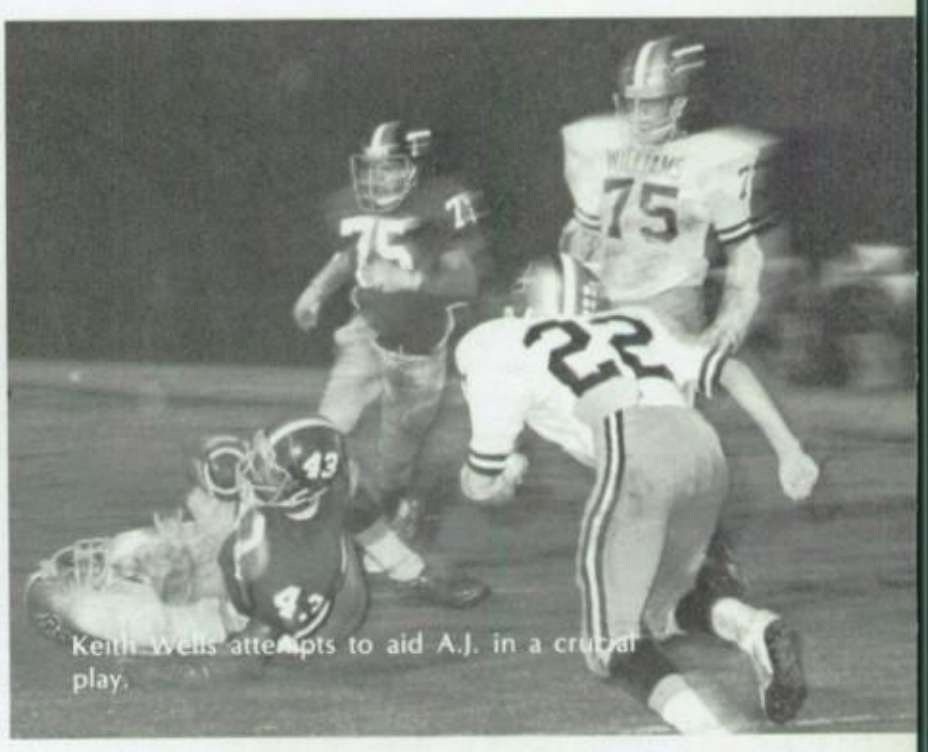
The game got off to a really great start with Williams scoring before sixty seconds of the game had elapsed. Fortunately, Graham quickly sloshed to a touchdown.

There was plenty of spinning, slipping, rolling and sliding — enough mud to cover each player. Flags on the play instantly disappeared into puddles as the soaked fans watched the score see-saw back and forth.

The Bulldogs had three yards to go when the Devils finally stopped them. With twenty-two seconds left on the clock, Donald Pickard scored the winning touchdown. The score was 28-27. For a brief moment, even the rain stopped.

Sheila Brincefield and Kim McRainey boost the devils on to victory.

"I love a parade . . ."



Keith Wells attempts to aid A.J. in a crucial play.

By Halftime People Will Start

As spectators lining Main Street, we kept anxiously glancing at the overcast sky. Soon down the street would come the procession of unprotected sponsors in gleaming cars and attendants on floats made with flowers that run when they get wet. Visions of ruined and soggy floats danced through our minds, but until the last few seconds of the parade, our luck held.

We weren't so lucky at halftime. The sponsors and attendants were almost hidden beneath their umbrellas as they waded onto the football field, but all thoughts of the miserable weather vanished with the crowning of Beth Wightman as homecoming queen. Susan Stanfield was first runner-up and Angela Pinnix was maid of honor.

Even though the team was jubilant over their hard earned victory, the weather continued to dampen the spirits of many others. Some were so disgusted that they went home right after the game. Those who were determined to continue celebrating homecoming went home for a quick change before the dance. In spite of fallen hairdos, clinging pants legs and muddy shoes, the spirit of the football team was contagious and everybody danced to the beat of the Average Pumpkin Band.

Rhonda Franklin and Kim Durham show their spirit as the devils lead on to a victory.

"Rip 'em up, tear 'em up" is what the weather had in mind as the senior float was destroyed.

All the hard work paid off as the sophomores were awarded first place in the float competition.

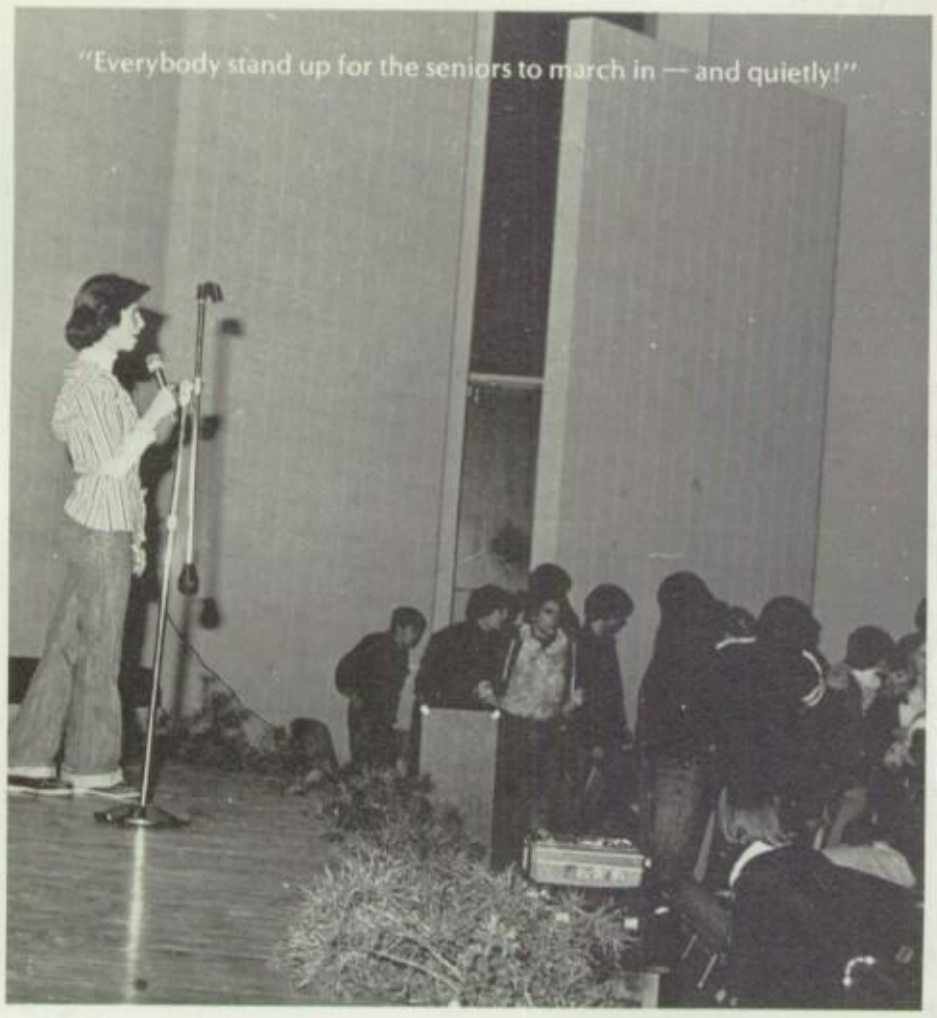
We Gather Together

A favorite place for students to assemble is in the snow.

The sound of "The Night Before Christmas" fills the air.

"The band plays on . . ."



"Everybody stand up for the seniors to march in — and quietly!"

Hughes Crisp goes over the words to his solo one last time.

In the confusion of over nine hundred students trying to find a seat before an assembly, many students gave their homeroom teachers the slip to join their friends halfway across the auditorium.

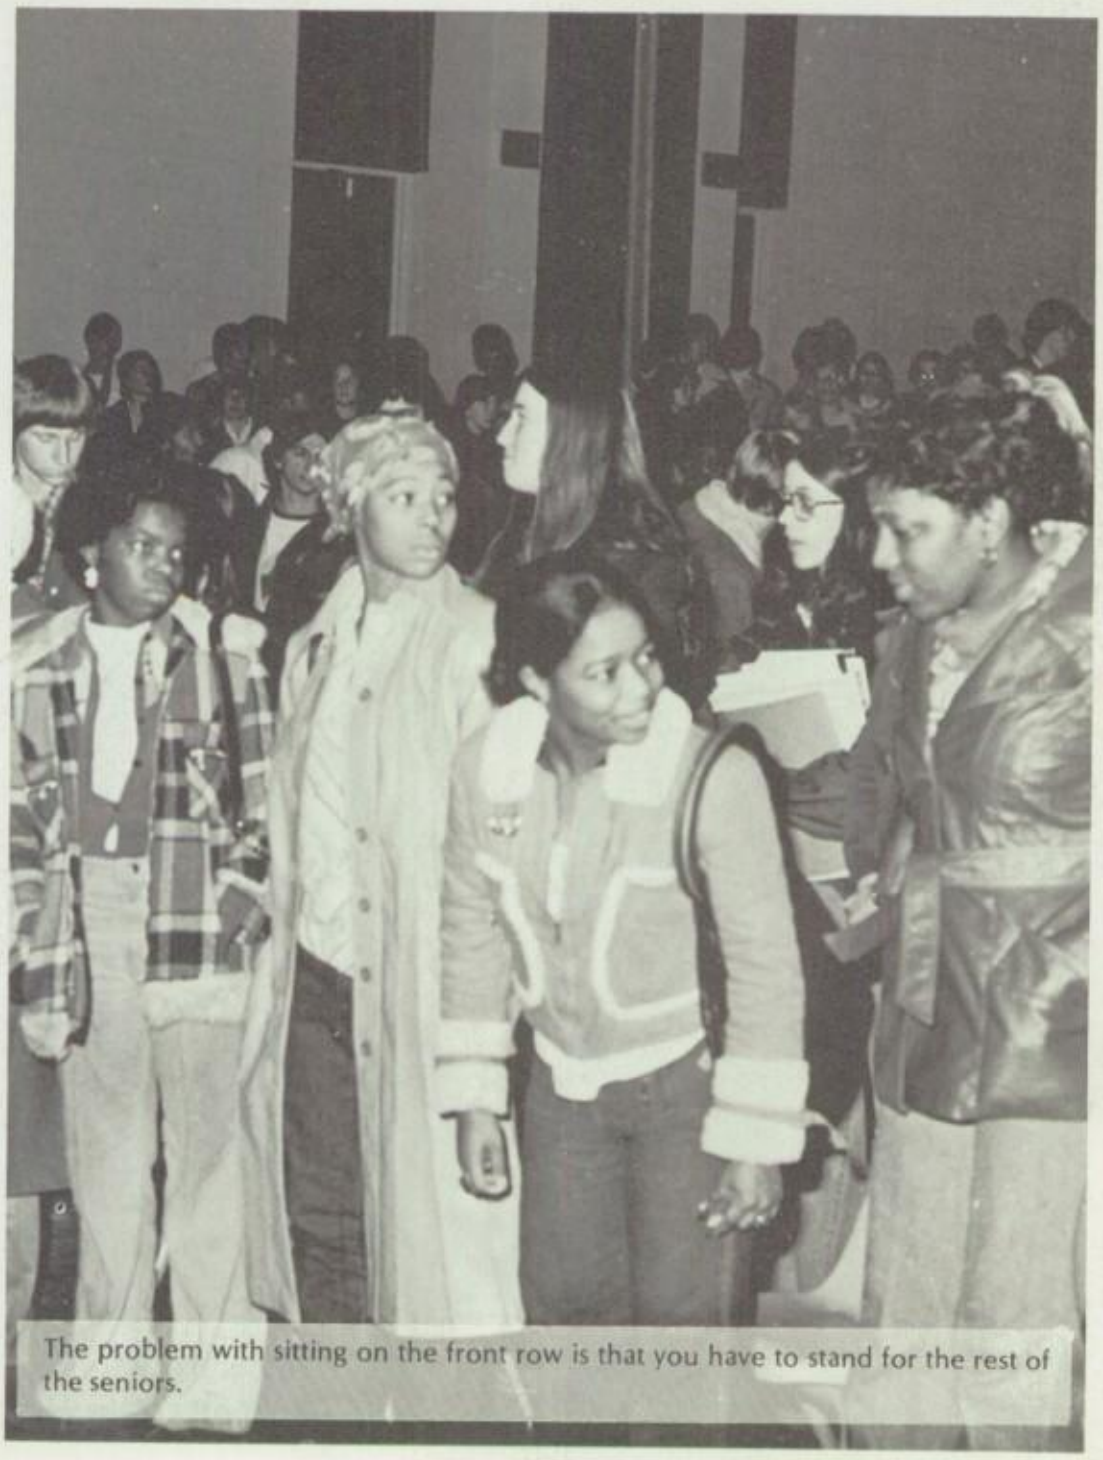
This past year the assemblies have certainly been most unusual. At one assembly the unsuspecting audience was infiltrated by The Youth of Flame Singers dressed as clowns, plumbers, someone in rain gear, a frumpish housewife, and a business man, all singing "We're Just People."

When The Torchbearers from New York City performed Shakespeare With A Beat, no two students expressed the same opinion: "It was boring"; "I thought it was different, but I liked it very much"; "It was all right, it'll do"; "It was sort of strange"; "Blah!"; "It was stupid"; "I liked it because I like Shakespeare."

During the later part of December the band and chorus gave their annual Christmas concert.

During Ecology Week the Biology and Oceanography classes presented skits written by the students themselves. Mr. Madrazo's multi-media presentation captured the interests of the entire student body.

No matter what the dictionary says, everyone knows what the definition of assembly is: a good excuse to get out of class. Good or bad, any assembly was better than listening to a fifty minute lecture.



The problem with sitting on the front row is that you have to stand for the rest of the seniors.

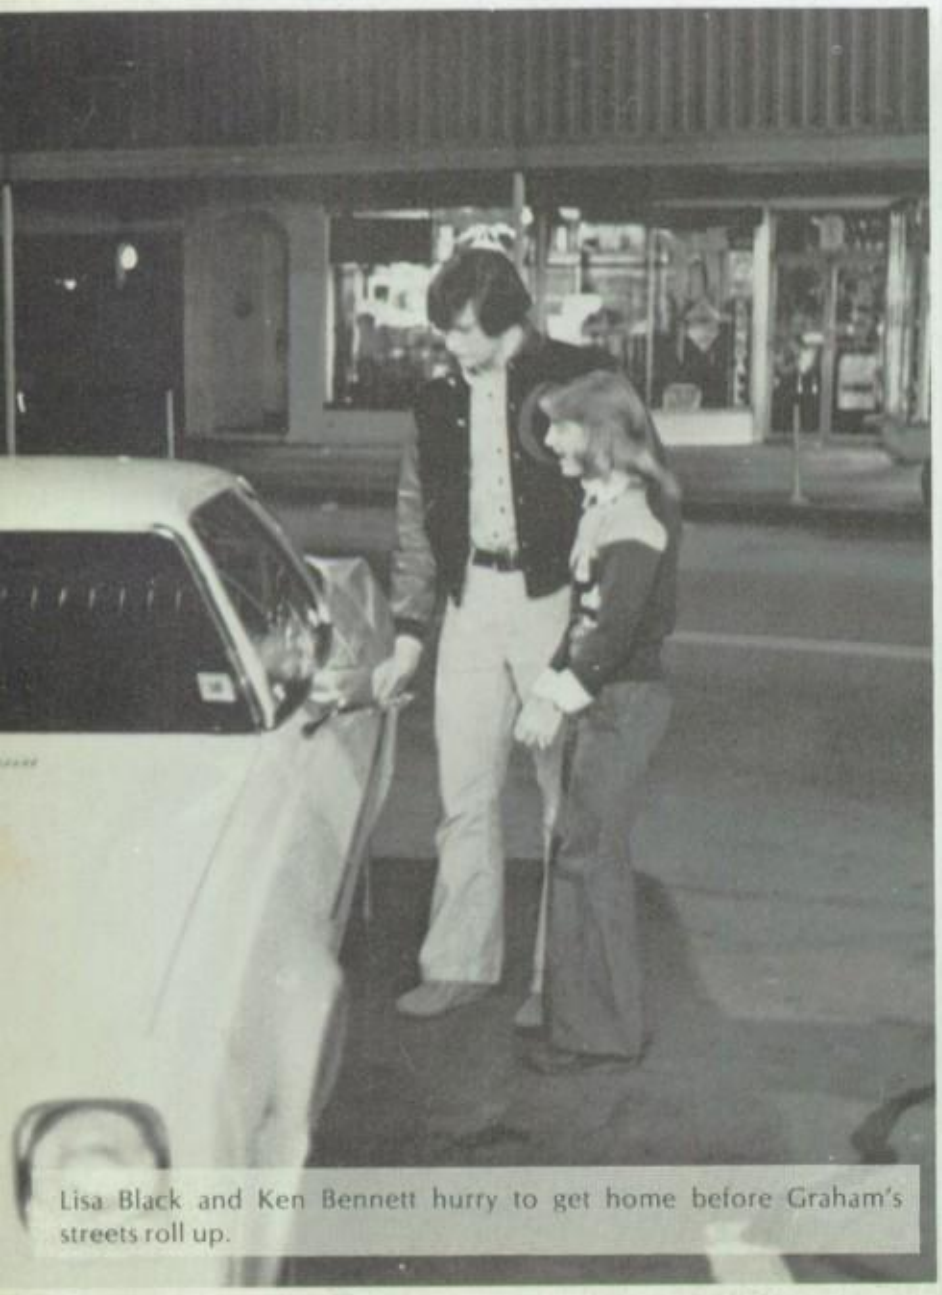
AFTER SIX

Graham isn't the most exciting town to live in. Actually, the sidewalks roll up around 9:00. So we high school students have always had to rustle up some excitement . . . which isn't as hard as it seems. If it's sports you like, there's always a Friday night game with a pizza or a dance to look forward to afterwards. Sometimes we have money to burn and go shopping at Holly Hill Mall or play some pinball at Pied Piper's Gallery.

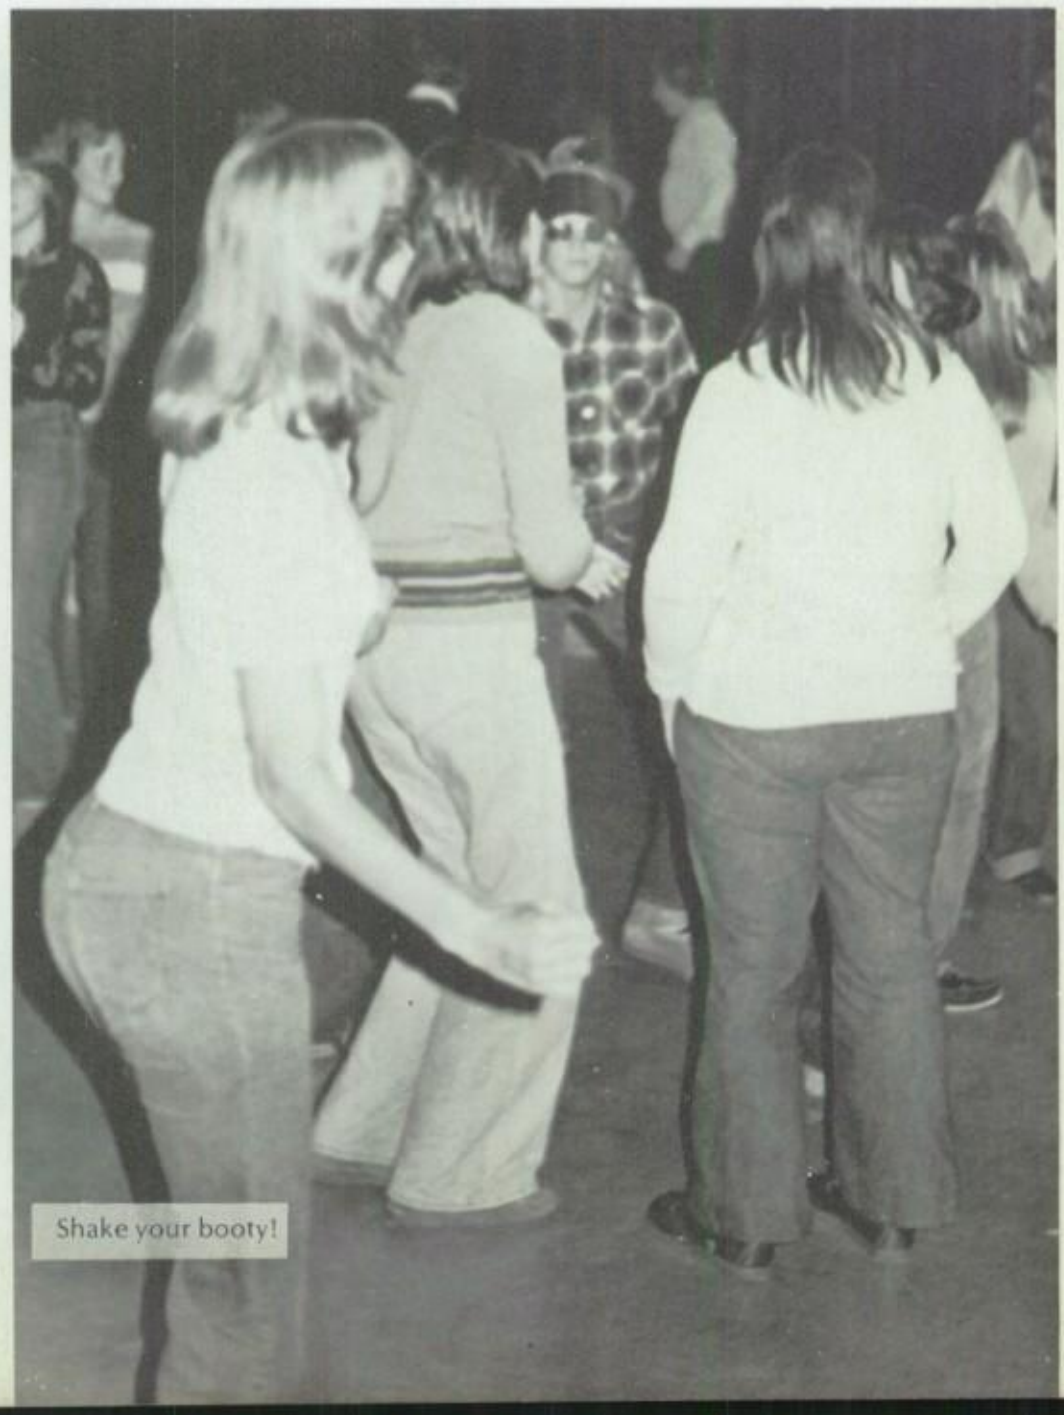
If money's a problem, you can always go riding around with friends or go jam at the block until it gets late.

But what really helps out is the neighboring cities: Greensboro with its coliseum, Chapel Hill and its lovely campus, Hillsborough with its ice skating rink for the very brave, and Burlington and the rednecks. Dating is always the best possible way to enjoy an evening — if you can just find a guy with a "bad ride", good looks, money, and someone that your parents like to boot.

Although we do have to get out and conjure up something to do, anything is better than sitting at home!



Lisa Black and Ken Bennett hurry to get home before Graham's streets roll up.



Shake your booty!

It's not the monsters that scare Robin Morrow, it's the people.

That monster doesn't scare Donna Collins!

For some, the pageant was one big headache. The rehearsals were swamped with difficulties. Friday night all the music sounded like it had a bad cold. The people that had never been involved with a pageant before quickly learned how much had to be done in an incredibly short period of time. Publicity, set design, getting trophies, making the ribbons, etc. But it was a good time to get together with friends who were also working on the pageant.

Had it not been for Miss Williams, Keyette advisor; Mr. Spellman, NHS advisor; and Jo Sykes, Jack-of-all-trades; everything would have been a big mess.

For the contestants, the pageant meant late night rehearsing. It took many long, hard hours of practicing just to get your walk right. But it was more than that. It was knowing that your classmates thought enough of you to want to see you compete.

All too soon it was Saturday night and each girl had a million fears running through her mind: "I'm on next, is my number on straight? How can I walk out there with all those people staring at me? The spotlights are blinding me. I can't see the end of the stage! What if I fall off? Which foot do I put in front when I stop? My face hurts from smiling. Now all I've got to do is stop in front of the door and turn around. Do I turn to the right or the left? Whew! Now all that's left is my talent and evening gown competition. Will this night ever end?"

The night quickly flew by, despite those awful Graham-Southern jokes by the Mistress and Master of Ceremonies, Joy Ray and Jeff Dillard.

After the street clothes, talent, and evening gown competition, the judges tallied the scores and selected the three finalists.

The reigning Miss GHS, Cindy Holmes, entertained the audience with her winning talent, "Revolutionary Etude." Following Cindy the chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Vicki Isley, sang "For All We Know" and "Window of Life."

The audience squirmed with impatience as they waited for the announcement of the new Miss GHS. The long-awaited moment finally arrived with the crowning of Molly Rogers, who was soon overwhelmed by well-wishing friends.

Wins Top Honors

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation presented a letter of commendation to Loretta S. Minor for her outstanding performance on the 1975 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT). Commended students represented less than two percent of the nation's secondary school senior class.

Edward C. Smith, president of MNSC, said: "The high standing of commended students in the Merit Program shows their great promise, and their attainment in their nationwide competition deserves public recognition. Commended students should be encouraged to continue their education; our nation as well as the students will benefit from their future educational and personal development."

By Popular

Mrs. Perkins gives a helping hand to Brenda Willis.

Being a well-liked teacher was one thing, but once was enough! All it took was a little bit of smiling and a whole lot of patience. These qualities came naturally to Mrs. Rosetta Perkins, who was awarded the Teacher of the Year Award by the Graham Jaycees in 1976. Before she had a chance to get used to her new popularity, she was awarded the title a second time. Mrs. Perkin's never ending popularity proved that all teachers weren't bad — it just took the Graham Jaycees to recognize her.

After being selected by the faculty, Terry Montgomery was presented the Good Citizens Award by the National Society of DAR. Terry exemplified leadership, dependability, patriotism and service to her school.

Vote

Sherry McLean displays some of her award-winning talent.

Obviously Sharon Isley and Sherry McLean had spirit since they were chosen by the cheerleaders as the ones who showed the most pep before, during, and after football and basketball seasons. This award was presented to the girls by members of the Student Council. It was not an easy award to win, for it took lots of preparation, "get up and go," and mainly interest to win that kind of recognition. Yelling and rooting for their favorite players weren't enough because sometimes they were required to wear unusual costumes which displayed the school colors and, of course, the red devil. Even though they were not the only spirit-filled students, they just seemed to have done a little bit better than the other school fans.

SPORTS

Sports were sometimes untold tales if you were always a spectator and never a participator. Our athletes were always winners whether it was after a hard-earned victory or an agonizing defeat because they possessed a special quality unseen in others . . .

GETTING IT

Our athletes never gave up in despair; they produced when we thought they couldn't muster up another point, and they always fought to the bitter end upholding a fine name for the Red Devils in each competitive field be it track, football or wrestling. On rare occasions they walked away losers, but losers on the scoreboard only. They accepted defeat when it came, like a pill hard to swallow.

To compete, it took long, tedious hours of training whether it was working out in the weight room, running, hitting, or exercising. Not once, but over and over again to make sure they had it down pat, then perfect, and to make sure they'd be ready for the opponent. Sure, there were days when they had to carry their buddies up and down that hill on their backs or "practice until the cows came in," but somehow they pulled through the school of hard knocks and all those bruise-ridden days paid off with dynamic results.

The taste of victory never became too sweet for the Red Devils. Spirits soared on Fridays, not because of the end of the school week, but because of a game that night. Cheerleaders "shook their booties" at pep rallies in hopes of getting everyone out to the game. Fans arrived early to stake out a good seat; the players arrived even earlier to dress out, become swathed in tape, and review the strategy to be used during the upcoming game.

With the roar of the crowd filling their ears, the Mighty Red Devils began working wonders. Half-time soon appeared along with the sometimes heated locker room talk. Back out, hitting paydirt or going up for two, it was a victory having "gone to the Devil."

Our teams had the will to be on top, to score, to hear the crowd supporting them each play and to wear their numbers with pride.

THE BIG RED MACHINE

When the Mighty Red Devil football team appeared before a crowd, it was anyone's guess what would happen next. The team had become known for adding excitement and thrill to each game. All the touchdowns and screaming cheerleaders made the fans high-spirited.

The Red Devils mixed enthusiasm, talent, zeal, and mental ability to compose one of the best teams in the State 3-A Conference

The Devils began their season in the summer with practice and practice and the leadership of fine coaches, which made the winning season possible.

The Best Of The Best

Newspaper articles predicted the conference title to be tied up in one game — the showdown between Graham and Southern. Graham fans chose to believe that the Red Devils would go on to be the state champs.

The Devils' first 29-6 victory over Cummings kindled a flame for a probable state championship, but two weeks later that flame was doused by a pack of wild Panthers from Dudley. This loss resulted in a more "prepared" team who destroyed Eastern Randolph 78-33 the next week.

Five games in the season and only one loss; Williams High appeared next on the roster. In one of the most exciting games of the season, Graham trudged 92 yards in the last 1:36 of the game for a hard earned 28-27 win.

It seemed all too soon the football season was coming to an end. The Mid-State East 3-A Championship was to be decided on November 5.

Graham and Southern fans journeyed to Southern and sat in an overcrowded, freezing cold stadium to see their team win. If spirit could win a game, the Red Devils would have been the champions, but Southern won on the scoreboard 20-6. Slowly the Graham spirit blended into the cold night air and left the Devils with an 8-2 season and tenth ranked in the 3-A Conference.

The Mr. Red Devils

34 KEN BENNETT — Moved from guard to fullback. Made the move with a lot of hard work and dedication. Another year and Ken would be the best fullback we ever had. Very coachable, loyal, and dependable.

86 STEVE CARTER — Steve did not have much to say on the field. His actions spoke so loud that you knew he was there. Very coachable and a pleasure to work with. A three year letterman.

66 JEFF CLAYTON — Like Steve, Jeff's actions spoke for him. One of the finest defensive ends in our area. We will miss #66 and #86 at the defensive end position. A three year letterman.

14 MARK COPELAND — A real pleasure to coach. Works very hard. Played on special teams and a letterman his junior and senior year.

42 HUGHES CRISP — Probably the finest receiver in this school's history. Can catch and run the ball very well. Excellent defensive player with a great deal of enthusiasm. Should do well in college football.

12 JEFF DILLARD — Jeff is one of the finest quarterbacks in North Carolina. His leadership helped in establishing Graham a football power. Had a very successful junior and senior year.

72 DAVID GREENE — Moved from wide receiver to tackle. Made valuable contributions to the team. A lot of potential. Very coachable and a pleasure to work with.

51 ERIC HOLSONBACK — One of the finest football players in North Carolina. Made valuable contributions to the team. Played in Shrine Bowl. Very coachable and a pleasure to work with. A three year letterman.

76 DAVID HORNE — Worked hard to get his weight down during the summer. Started at offensive tackle until injured against Dudley. Lettered his junior and senior year.

24 HOLT IVEY — Contributed very much to the team with his punting ability. Dedicated player and a real hustler. Plays with a big heart. Two year letterman.

40 JIMMY LAMBERT — Has more natural ability than many of our athletes. Great speed, a real competitor. Should do well in college football.

10 DON PICKARD — Pound for pound Don is one of the best football players in our area. Had a lot of success and was one of our finest receivers. A real pleasure to coach.

80 BRIAN ROBERTSON — One of the finest all-around players ever to play at Graham. A three year starter, played very aggressive defense. A team leader, very unselfish and most dependable. His contributions to the G.H.S. program can not be measured in wins or losses. Will be missed. Most loyal to coaches and team.

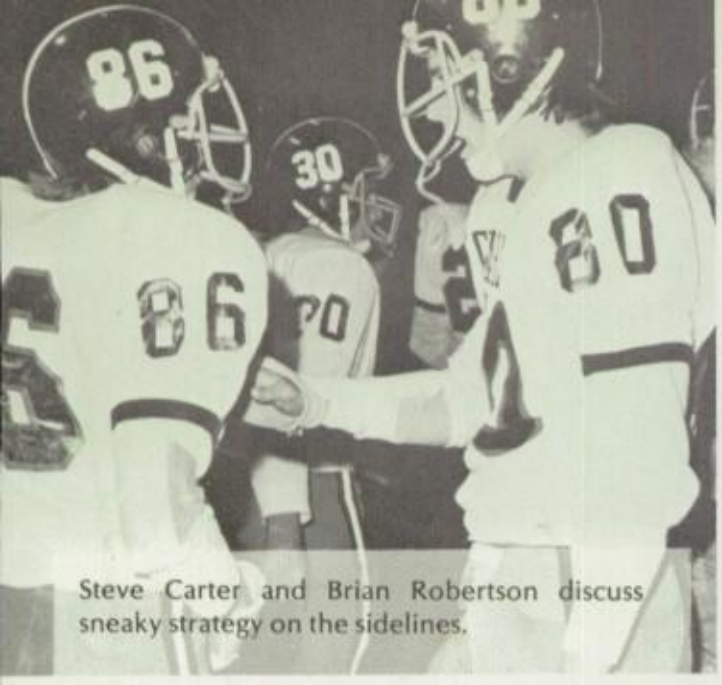
62 CHRIS SMITH — Chris made tremendous sacrifice in moving to guard from quarterback. Worked hard to build his strength and quickness. He was one of the strongest players on the team.

43 A.J. TROLLINGER — Probably one of the best backs in North Carolina. A.J. gave himself to the season and the team. While at Graham, A.J. has rushed for well over 3,000 yards. Shared duties as a sophomore, then started his junior and senior years. Established many rushing records while at Graham.

64 JACKIE TURNER — Played varsity football past two years. Very strong. Lettered his junior and senior year.

32 TERRY WADE — Moved from offensive to defensive tackle during the '76 season. Made valuable contributions to the success of the defense and the team. Very coachable and loyal to the team.

75 KEITH WELLS — Came to Graham from Western. Worked hard, played hard and was very instrumental in our '76 season. A real pleasure to coach. Excellent offensive and defensive player.



Steve Carter and Brian Robertson discuss sneaky strategy on the sidelines.

The 1976 Football Team was made up of thirty-nine Mr. Red Devils. Eighteen of the thirty-nine will be remembered for a very long time to come. Each one making a sacrifice in order to build himself and his team into a very respectable individual and team. The accomplishment that these men made to our school will be measured by many in wins and losses. Their accomplishment in my mind will be measured in dedication, responsibility, enthusiasm, hustle, pride, loyalty, leadership, and respect. The eighteen Seniors gained valuable experience in the values necessary for success in everyday life.

The coaching staff is so very proud of each and everyone of the 1976 Seniors and the 1976 football team.

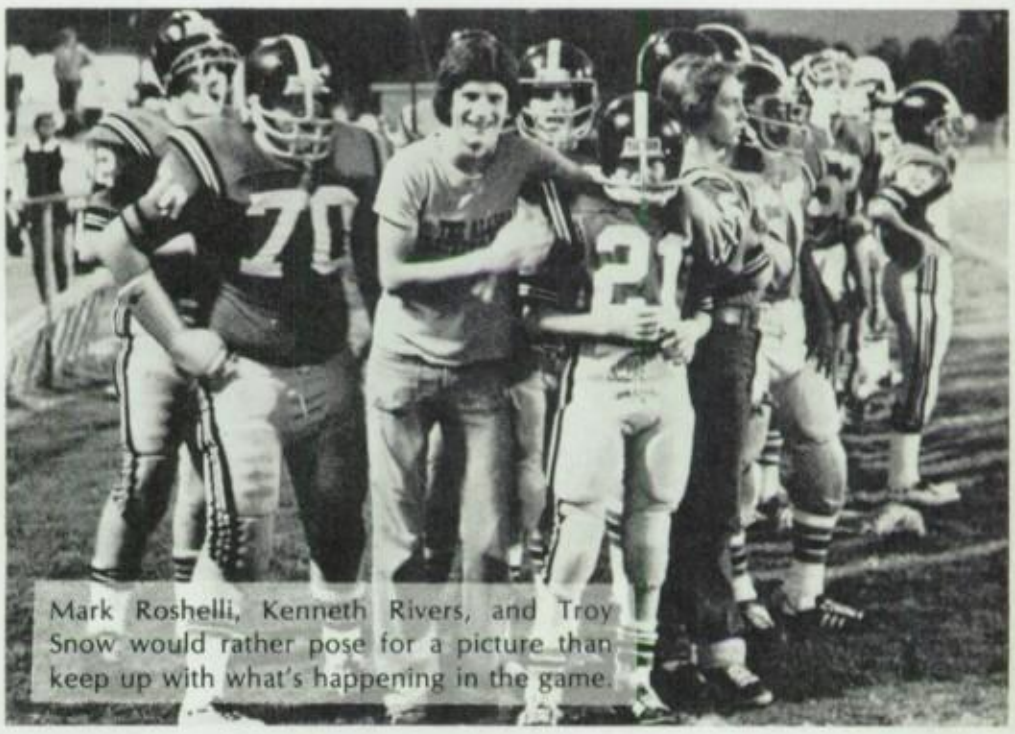
Making A Name For Themselves

For the junior varsity football team, the season was one of ups and downs, bitter losses and triumphant wins. The team had the ability and potential and slated an impressive 6-4 season, the best in three years.

Consistency, or maybe the lack of it, was perhaps the J.V.'s main problem. With the first two jolting losses to Cummings and Morehead, the team got back on their feet and won the next three games. Then came a pounding defeat by Williams, 51-0. The last game and probably the high-light of the season was the 20-12 victory over Southern.



Mark Roshelli, Kenneth Rivers, and Troy Snow would rather pose for a picture than keep up with what's happening in the game.

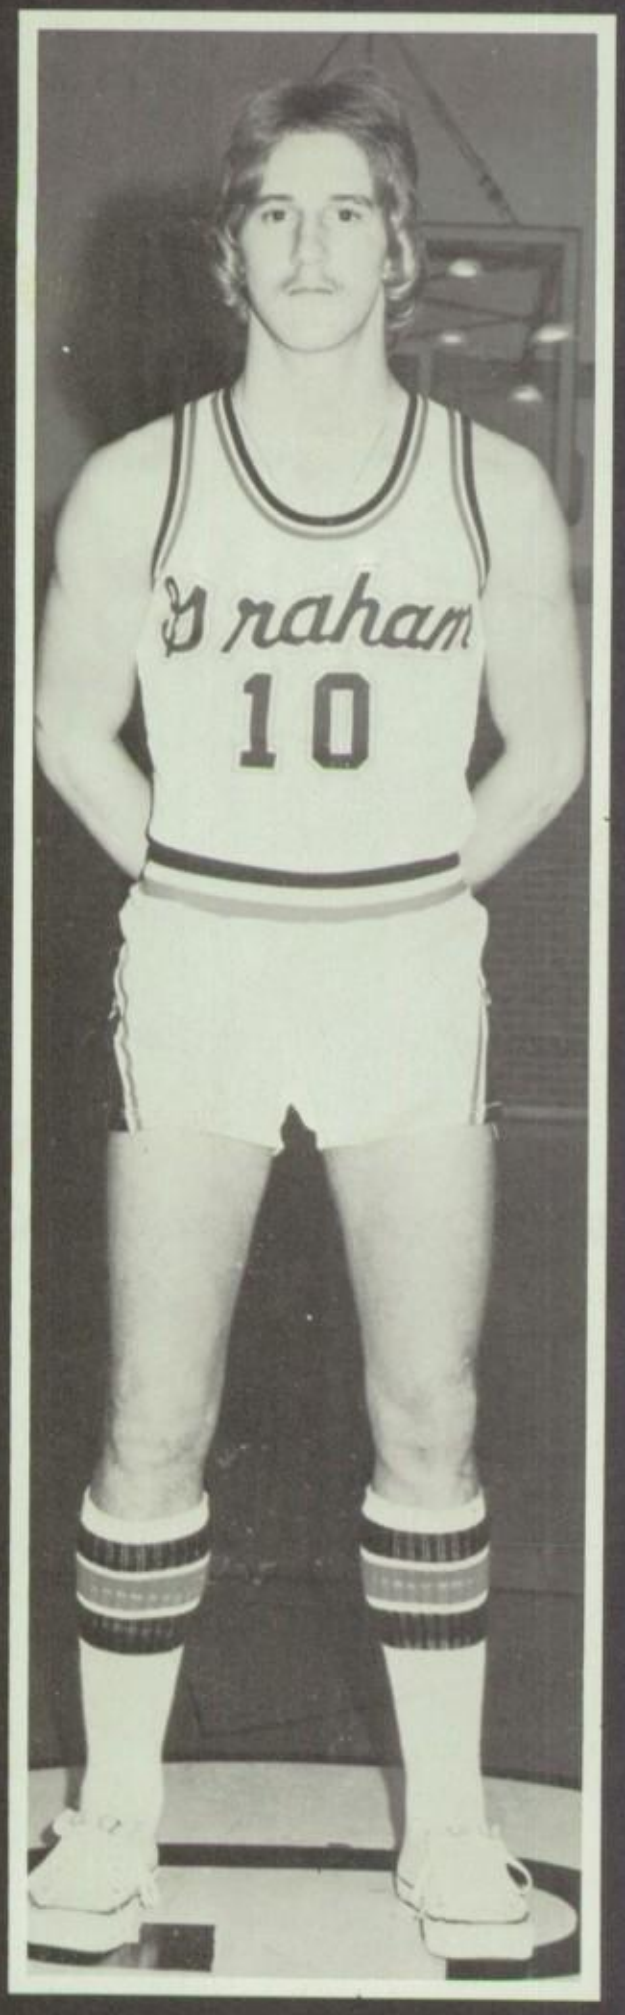
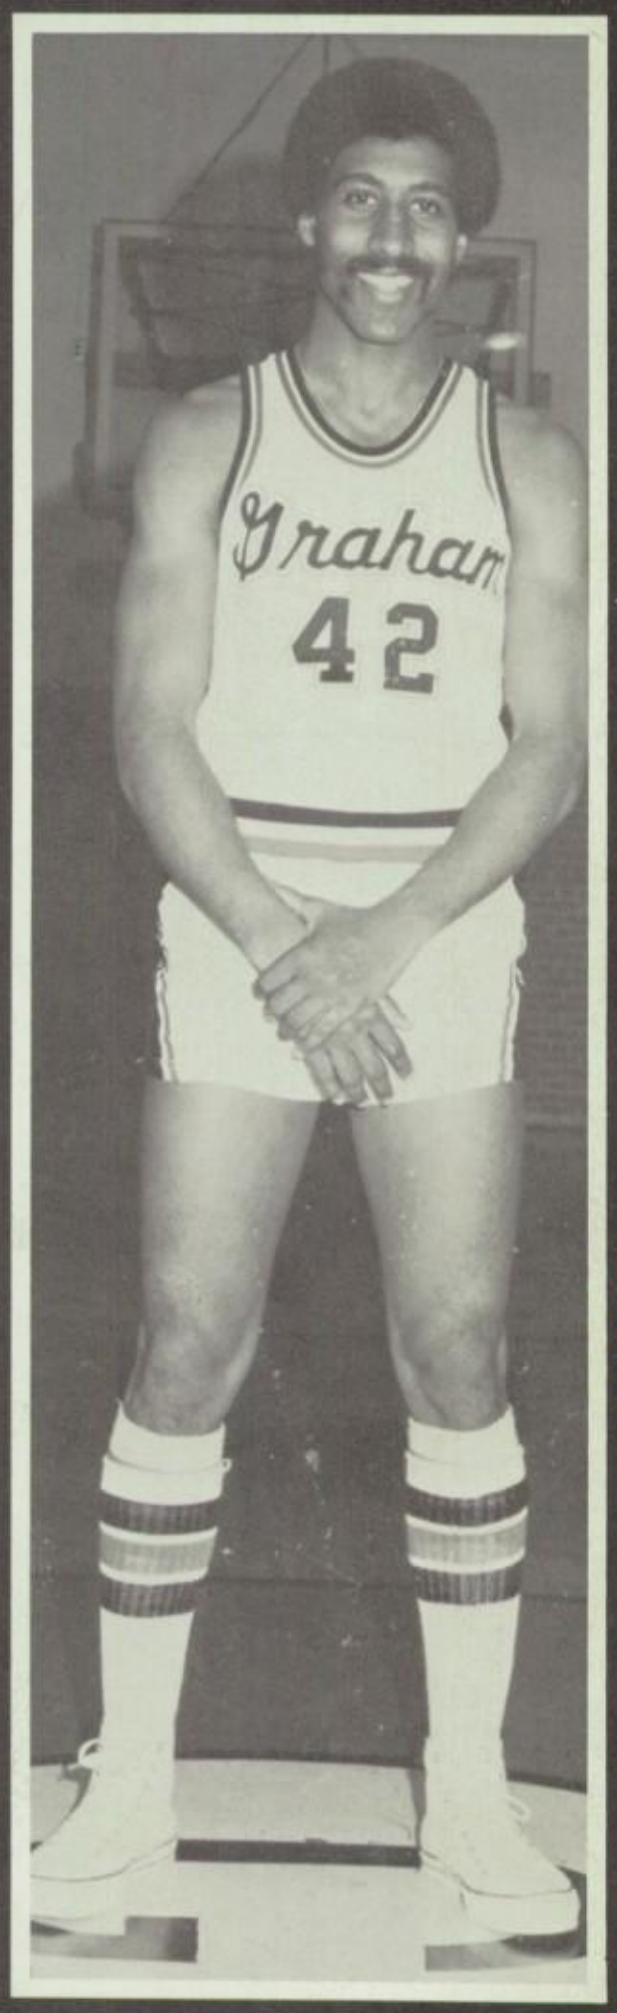
Super Seniors



Donald Pickard is a big threat on both ends of the court.

Agile Maurice Collins is noted for his ball handling skills.



As the leading rebounder, A.J. Trollinger shares in the scoring honors.

Crazy eights, suicides, lap-running, skinned knees, lay-ups and endless hours of practice marked the beginning of the varsity basketball season. In their last regular season, the Red Devils completely dominated the play-offs and captured the 3-A State Championship, but it was back to the drawing board for the '76-'77 team.

Team effort made the team respected as strong contenders. Donald Pickard and Maurice Collins greatly assisted A.J. Trollinger, the leading rebounder. Success also depended on the two sophomores, Mark Lane and Maurice Evans, and Mark Riley, the center, who contributed double-figure scores in most every game.

The swamping victories over T.I.A. and Williams highlighted the season. As for defeat, "I am optimistic and yet realistic because we lost all five starters from last year's championship team," said a confident Coach Bowman. "As the season progressed, the inexperienced but hard-working players steadily improved."

They Came

With only two returning players, Jim Albright and Clint Daye from the '75-'76 team, Coach Boone had his work cut out for him. Team effort and determination to win overcame the inexperience of the J.V. team and their coach, who began his coaching career this year!

As the season progressed, the players picked up momentum through the efforts of freshman Robert Swink whose rebounding and scoring efforts reflected a much improved team.

Shootin' For A Victory

The gym was packed full of nervous girls waiting to see who had made the team after two weeks of exhausting practices. Six freshmen girls were especially proud to be members of the '77 team.

The next day it was out to the gym for suicides and lay-ups. Practice, practice, practice! About two hours a day kept the girls in shape and ready for anything.

Coach Amos, the team's new coach, led the girls through a good season. They hustled during every game and were always shooting for a victory.

In Spike Of It All!

Fast thinking and quick reflexes boosted our volleyball team to a much improved record of 6-5. The coach, Mrs. Perkins, felt that without this "team effort" the girls wouldn't have come in third in the conference.

The football teams weren't the only ones who found themselves spending extra hours at school, for the girls also began tiresome, but valuable practices in the summer. The girls practiced only about an hour and a half, but at the end they were just as sweaty as the guys and their bruised knees, red arms, and aching bodies made them reluctant to return to practice the next day. Finally, the big day arrived! Everyone would get to see how much those exhausting practices would pay off.

The girls, neatly dressed in their spiffy little uniforms, were ready for anything. The girls who performed for the first time in front of a crowd found themselves missing serves and smacking the ball when they should have been blocking. Nervous jitters caused the team to lose their first game 10-15. But soon they "got it together" and dominated in the next two games. Turning in their uniforms and rolling up the net marked the end of an exciting volleyball season.

Kneeling: Mrs. Perkins (coach), Gina Rhew, Sharon Isley, Kim Hinton. Standing: Renate Costner, Teri Waggoner, Shawn McQueen, Allison Tew, Dale Stafford, Marcia Wilson, Von Corbett, Renee Swink, Janice Carter, Donna Angel, Cheryl Basnight, Gina Pickard, Beth Wolfgang.

A Somersault In A Birdcage?

Two nights a week it was out to the gym for a long and tough practice. Both the girls and the guys in the club found gymnastics challenging. Some of them, as uncoordinated as they were, found themselves doing birdcages on the rings and somersaults on the trampoline. They made splits on the beam look as easy as falling off a log.

A combination of strength and concentration enables Tommy Large to work out on the rings.

Nancy Call keeps the audience spellbound as she performs her routine.

Cheerleading denotes spirit and although most of the cheerleaders on the Red Devil squad were new, they still kept the fans active at the ball games and pep rallies. During the pep rallies the spirit stick was given to the class that hollered and screamed their lungs out the most. Sometimes there was a controversy between the cheerleaders on who should receive it for that week.

This bunch of girls worked hard for Graham which took a lot of time, effort, and energy. They painted posters, held Spirit Week, made name tags each week for the players, and decorated Western Steak House before the Western game.

The Junior Varsity cheerleaders worked diligently preparing each week's activities for the Red Devils. Often they provided a run-through for the players. They decorated the walls at school with posters, made name tags for each player and occasionally gave the guys bags of candy to make them sweeter. At pep rallies they served as a back-up for the Varsity squad during some of the cheers. All in all these little Devils released the best bump and boogie cheers.

Winning Doesn't Come Easily

Wally Hanford brought talent and experience to the G.H.S. wrestling team. For three years, he wrestled free style and won top honors in the Nationals by being first in the state in the seventh and eighth grades.

Good leadership, more dedication, and more knowledge of the sport helped the team improve their record.

CLASSES

We consumed paper just as the sharpener consumed our pencils. If we had thought high school was going to be that demanding, we would have just rolled over in bed that first fateful morning of kindergarten and never grown up . . .

GOING BY

Who went to school to study! We tried to put it in the back of our minds that this was the reason we were there. Once in a while we learned something truly interesting like a girl wasn't supposed to say thank you when her date brought her home. We really couldn't understand how Algebra II was going to help us in daily life, but we struggled through the course and the teacher anyway. Classes could be fun though and very enjoyable — if we had a creative teacher who planned unique events such as weddings, plays, games and trips to the beach, to the light show Laserium, or to a maximum security state penitentiary. Classes could be even more appealing if we had a substitute that day! The teachers at Graham really had to use their ingenuity to keep us captivated in the classroom.

When our teachers hadn't packed enough work in the alloted fifty minutes, we took it home in the dreaded form of — HOMEWORK! We went to our lockers at the end of the day to empty them but returned half of the books, putting those off until homeroom the next morning and begrudgingly took home the others hoping none of our friends labeled us "bookworms." But there were crutches we leaned on when the going got too rough such as Cliff Notes, calculators, and moms that could type. Exams were on the top, bottom, and in-between of everyone's hate list. If we happened to swing a 90 or above in a particular course, we got exempt from that exam. Disgusting it was when we found our average was 89!

Classes were demanding and sometimes we wondered if we would ever have enough time for all we had to do. "D Day" was report card day when last rites were given before we got grounded and didn't see daylight for nine weeks.

Last year's graduating class kept coming back with harrowing tales about college . . . "my biology class has 350 people in it" . . . "I have a chemistry professor who writes and erases at the same time!" . . . that scared us to death and made us thankful that our courses were on our level, that we at least had a chance at passing and that our teachers cared as much as they did!

The courses we had at Graham High were informative, if not entertaining, preparing us for college or a job. Through all the reports, broken pencils, overflowing wastebaskets and overdue library books, we somehow managed to survive the academic year, learning something new everyday.

THE BOOK

Back To

Survival and World Religions continued to be the most popular history electives. In order to take these interesting courses, every freshman had to take N.C. & U.S. History. Once this basic course was completed, history buffs graduated with four units in Social Studies.

Graham English students struggled through new grammar textbooks. Even though these books were artistically oriented, students soon found that these colorful illustrations and cartoons still emphasized the basics: parts of speech, sentence and paragraph development, and even those dreaded verbals. And these new books didn't replace reading from the old literature books, writing those time-consuming term papers, and doing book reports. Somehow, with the aid of week-ends and teacher workdays, the students survived these basic courses and managed to come out with an average grade.

Frogs N^2 Pans

On their field trip to the beach, Oceanography and Ecology students take time out to build a sand castle.

That dreaded day of class finally came. Those little frogs were laid out in their pans as if waiting to be dissected. My stomach turned three somersaults and five handsprings before I finally got up the nerve to pin the frog to the pan and begin. My knife all ready to begin surgery, the frog's beady eyes looked straight into mine, and he winked at me in a last minute attempt to persuade me to change my mind. I hardened my heart and managed to complete a somewhat gruesome job.

Mathematically speaking, $x^2 + 15x^2 + 4y^2$ was Greek to me. If I started out with positive and negative, I ended up with trinomial factoring, and if I started out with postulates and theorems, I ended up with 20 minute proofs. I knocked myself out to learn these proofs and dreamed of them all night long. And though my grades weren't always the best, I knew that my "E" stood for effort.

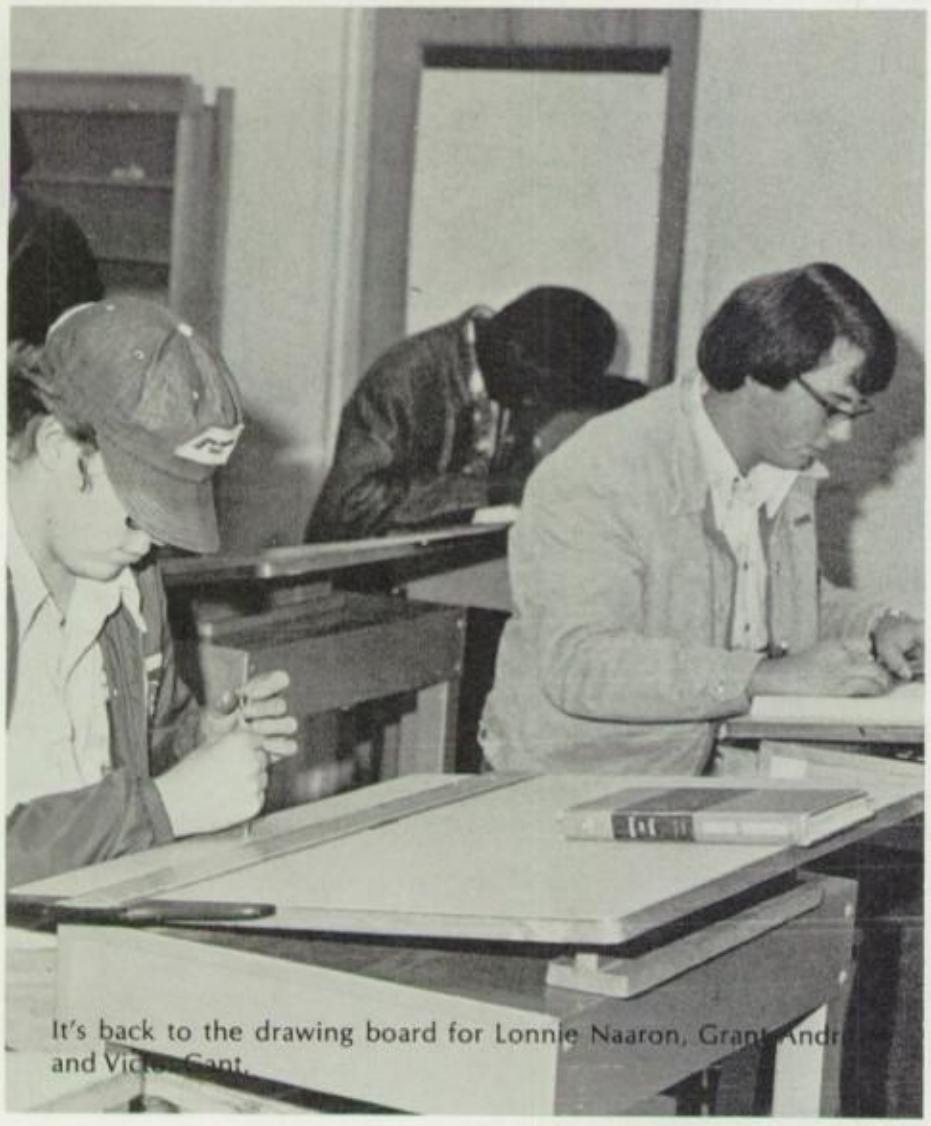
Making The Most Of It



It's back to the drawing board for Lonnie Naaron, Grant Andr[illegible] and Vick[illegible] Cant.

Are you one of those people who can't fry eggs in a non-stick pan? When you tried sewing, did you stitch your finger instead? And when you had a project to do that had to be typed, did you find that you had 20 fingers instead of 10?

If you were one of these people, you did have a choice. You could have starved, or you could have taken Home Economics. It sure helped when you couldn't stretch your $2.00 allowance to buy the latest fashion, but you could always purchase a pattern and some dazzling material since you had learned to sew.

Your "peck-peck" system of typing was replaced by the know-how, and you no longer had to go bankrupt paying someone to do your typing.

Maybe you didn't perform miracles like the Six Million Dollar Man, but then again, you weren't bionically powered — you made the most of your opportunities.

Did You Say Talent?

One Two, One Two Three-Da, Da . . . and they thought they were off to wonderful music, but Mr. Cline didn't seem to think so. If there was one "bleep" out of place, they had to stop and start all over again. The long hours of practice showed up when they went to Bristol and received a good rating (no thanks to the rain they marched in with mud up to their knees). And though their nerves were jittery, their performances were superb. They wondered if we would be proud of them . . . and we were!

Decked out in dazzling new formal gowns and ruffled shirts, the chorus sang in a Christmas Concert on the Good Morning Show. Thanks to their nightly practices, they gave a splendid performance.

Painting the cafeteria walls with dazzling Rock Stars and a Mighty Red Devil enjoying lunch, budding artists of the Art Department brightened lunch time. We took great pride in being the only school to share our daily lunches with KC, Stevie Wonder, Peter Frampton, John Denver, and other famous Rock Stars.

Fittin' It All In

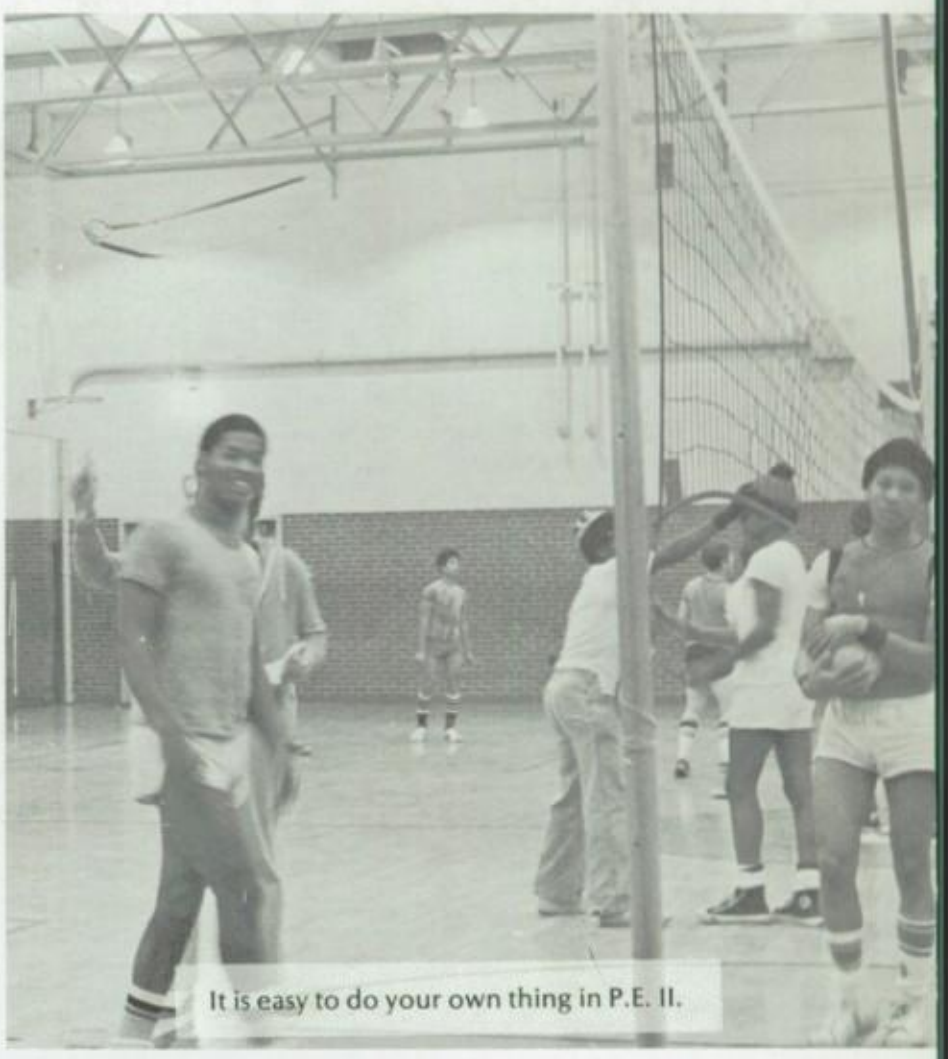
The one thing that every freshman remembered from Physical Education was the chanting of one-two-three-one, one-two-three-two as they began another round of jumping jacks, touching toes, and sit-ups. And of course, there had to be a morning after when their bodies were filled with aches and pains from muscles they never knew existed. The guys were fortunate not to have those darling, little gym suits. The thing most girls looked forward to was their sophomore year when they could choose whether or not to suffer through it again by taking P.E. II.

Keeping physically fit at Graham High School went farther than just Physical Education. If a guy didn't know the difference between a starter and a carburetor, his best bet was to take shop. This also gave him the opportunity to knock the dents out of his own car.

I.C.T., D.E., and B.O.E. provided on-the-job training for high school students over 16. For this group of students, the school day ended at 12:30, but they didn't actually make it home until much later. And though they had more pocket money, they had less time to spend it.

After that first day of Driver's Education when Mr. Thompson wore the brakes out, they were ready to give up. But they kept on trucking because they knew there was no other way to get their permit.

Who had time for much more? These electives left them breathless as it was. They rushed from one thing to another, learning the different techniques, and somehow seemed to fit it all in.



It is easy to do your own thing in P.E. II.

Each day during sixth period, enthusiastic journalists crowded into Mr. Johnson's room to release creative ideas which ultimately resulted in seven issues of the TELE-O-GRAHAM. Of course, there remained the arrangement of layouts and the hectic task of typing the material to be printed.

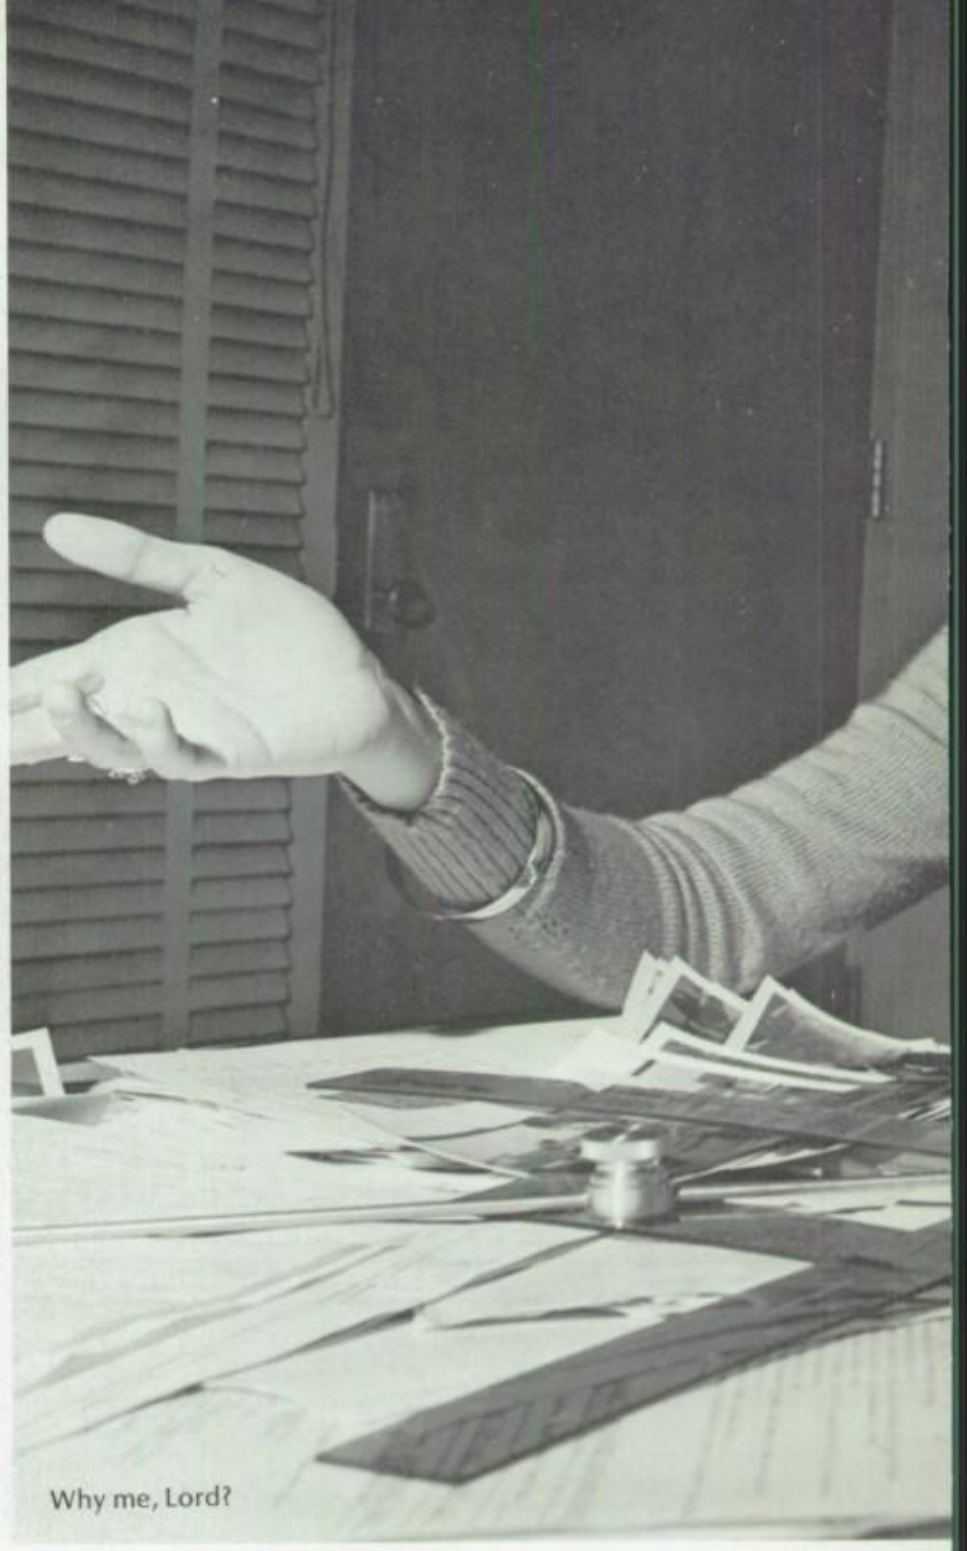
One of the staff's problems was the actual printing of the newspaper. More than once Mr. Johnson became exasperated when he was forced to place stale news in the hands of the students. In spite of late deadlines and a hectic schedule, Mr. Johnson, in his second year as staff advisor, was encouraged that his students were more enthusiastic.

The TELE-O-GRAHAM staff did not have a monopoly on publishing problems. The WAG staffers had a few problems of their own. For them, the year began with the Longwood Workshop, car washes, bake sales and selling twice as many ads as the previous year, all in the blistering hot sun.

For their campaign to increase annual sales, the cheerful voice of Susanna Glidden came across the PA System urging everyone to buy their sensational annual. KC and the Sunshine Band actually created a pause amid the roar of homeroom students. However, even generous donations from local merchants for daily drawings failed to create enthusiasm. Surprisingly, in spite of all efforts, the annual sales decreased.

Working frantically, they often wondered if they would meet their deadlines. Mr. Heckman was still snapping pictures at 12:00 on the day of the November deadline. Writing captions and copy for pictures they didn't have was one headache after another. It was no secret that producing a good annual required long hours of hard work by a few dedicated Red Devils.

As Delmar returned proofs to the staff, their frantic minds and fatigued bodies rallied to the excitement of seeing their work in print. Also, meeting their deadlines entitled the school to a supplement which included spring activities, prom and graduation.



Why me, Lord?

CLUBS

Togetherness got the job done. No do-it-yourself business within any organizations at GHS. It was all for one and one for all . . .

FOR ALL THE RIGHT REASONS

Grasping our foolproof plans in one hand and drawing upon hours of hard work way ahead of the school year, we started our club activities full of enthusiasm. Beginning in the heat of summer, we held meetings, shared ideas, and planned for an active school and community season. Our goals were many: whether it was developing creative thoughts for the first Fine Arts Week, visualizing ourselves at Paris in the spring, successfully pulling off a dance, or swaying all day at a rock-a-thon.

The organizations we participated in were civic-minded, to say the least! We raised money for the Heart Fund and Retarded Children's Association, Christmas caroled at rest homes, worked at the GGO and donated money toward the building of our fieldhouse. Being a member of a club took perseverance and patience, and along with the rewards of lending a helping hand, we got that warm tingle down inside.

Getting together and being involved in the same activities made clubs a good social outlet. We traveled to college football games, held holiday parties, attended banquets, listened to speakers and worked until the pageant and Homecoming ran smoothly. None of these events could have come about without the guiding touch of our club advisors, who offered suggestions, chaperoned and pulled us out of tight situations.

Clubs made up a vital part of our extracurricular activities — teaching us the importance of responsibility.

PEOPLE

When going under for the third time, we always depended upon a schoolmate to come to the rescue, whether it was in chemistry lab or around Prom time — looking for a date or a dress. The students at our high school were like the Calvary — arriving in the nick of time . . .

OFF THE BEATEN PATH

How could 993 of us coexist on our campus for 180 days and enjoy it as much as we did? Sure we had our scraps and scuffles, but we relished each other's company — for without people, school would have been UNREAL!

We shared projects, lockers, and problems together. We signed up for a course because we knew our friends were in that class. We all had our own favorite teachers, songs, sayings and NFL teams. We rode in car pools, had pajama parties, gossiped like mad in homeroom. We did everything together from going to dances to the mountains skiing. Most of us watched our weight, our piggy banks, and the opposite sex! We dreamed of arriving at the basketball game with "Starsky" or "Farrah Faucett-Majors" as an escort. We were more than relieved when the sultry August weather delayed the opening of school, yet prayed for snow during the winter months. Having completed Oceanography and seen Jaws for the third time, we developed a phobia of sharks. We scanned the screen twenty-four hours a day for the Fifth Avenue commercial . . . we slid on the "green stuff" in the halls . . . hugged our dates after a victory . . . counted down the days until graduation . . . and myriad other things.

Throughout the school year we counted on each other, lending a helping hand when we could and loved every minute of being a part of high school life . . . of being in our prime.

CAST CALL

Students:

This yearbook is a valuable book. It is a volume of history — a history of a year in the life of Graham High School. Each student and each staff member have had a part in shaping that history.

The high school years should be "Prime Time" in preparation for adult life. The use you have made of this time will influence your future. I hope you will enjoy recalling your own memories of the 1976-77 year at Graham High School.

Edward Jenkins

Dr. Robert Nelson — Superintendent of the Alamance County schools.

Bill Clark, Sandy McGauvran, and Jerry Ferguson — Guidance Counselors. Jo Sykes — Guidance Secretary.

More Than

Can you imagine? Just yesterday we were little kids running around the playground playing freeze tag, jumping and swinging on monkey bars. We didn't have a care in the world.

As we began to grow older and advanced to Middle School, we realized our carefree years were a thing of the past and a certain amount of responsibility was thrust on us.

Much later, the first few weeks of high school automatically changed us into maturing young adults. New experiences happened everyday. All of a sudden we were those seniors we had always looked up to.

As freshmen, we had to hold a map of the campus in our hands all year; as sophomores, we felt we were "old hands around the place"; as juniors, we worked on a super prom for the seniors — realizing we were next in line. Last, but certainly not least, we were seniors.

The summer before our senior year we gloated over our newly-arrived status with all its privileges. As a group, we marched into assemblies as everyone else stood quietly. We ordered our graduation invitations, not fully realizing that June 3 would be a very special day; it just hadn't hit us yet. As we looked back, the year brought many memories — measuring for caps and gowns . . . getting jobs . . . applying to colleges . . . the Homecoming game with its weather fit for ducks . . . reserving cottages for the beach . . . secret crushes . . . parties . . . it was all a blur of busy events.

Sure, there were other graduating classes all over the world, but none of them could match our Graham High School class of 1977 . . . WE WERE MORE THAN JUST A MEMORY.

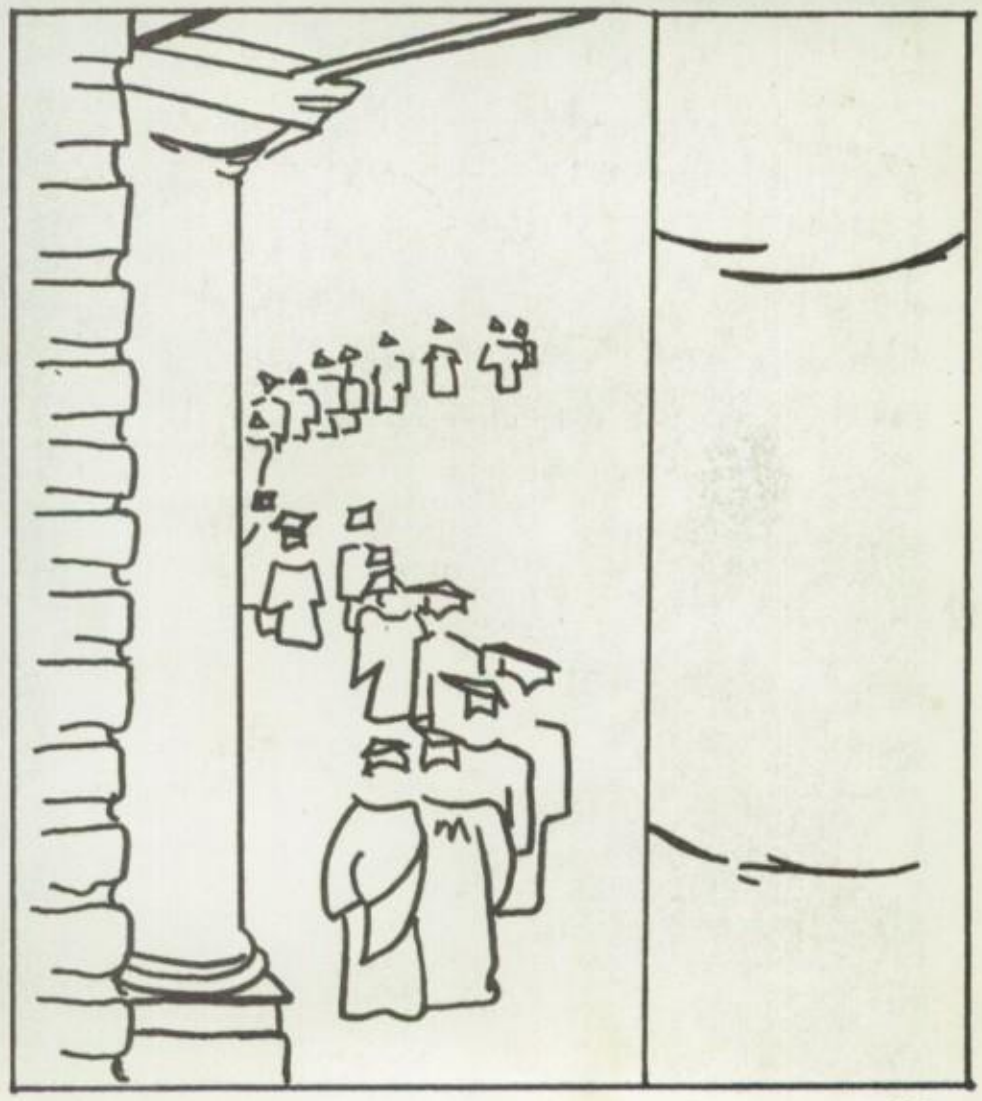
"We've Only Just Begun."



One Step At A Time

We the junior class, being of sound minds and 200 members, have carried out feats this year never before considered possible.

After working for a week and spending more money than we should have, we thought we had the float competition wrapped up. But to our disappointment Homecoming night, we only received third place. Our pride was boosted a little when we received honors for the most original theme.

A band committee was selected to go to Charlotte to find a great band suited for our low-income bracket. After listening for hours to bands playing music ranging from blue grass to soul, we were most impressed by "Fifth Avenue," the band we booked for our 1977 Junior-Senior Prom.

There was more to being a junior than getting up at 8:00 on those freezing Saturday mornings to sell baked goods and wash cars. One of our big responsibilities was playing a guessing game otherwise referred to as the PSAT. These tests were always scheduled the morning after an event that kept us up until 1:00 A.M. Without that test we couldn't get in any colleges; knowing this didn't relieve any of our pressures.

We have moved up one step at a time the last eleven years, and knowing there is only one more step to climb in our high school career is a great relief.

Sophomores Win First Place

In order to raise money for their float, the sophomore class sponsored a bake sale, a car wash, and a record dance. When the money came pouring in, they thought they had it made. But dark clouds loomed over the horizon. No one could find a floatbed on which to "Put the bulldogs in their place." In the nick of time Carla Slaughter secured the floatbed, and a few dedicated sophomores claimed to have worked around the clock in order to enter the Homecoming Float Competition. Winning first place boosted morale and made upperclassmen take note of the class of '79.

Freshmen Handles

Punk, flicked-heads, babies, and shorties. The class of '80 didn't respond to any of these freshmen handles. They took the school by storm and were no longer shy, inhibited, or timid.

For the first time freshmen were allowed to join service clubs. This was a good opportunity for the youngest class to get acquainted with upper classmen and school activities.

Even though they were disappointed in Homecoming float competition and their Halloween dance, they quickly became absorbed in the main stream of their new campus life.

Cone fabrics have stood for freedom from the start...since 1895, when Americans started living in them.

One of our early offerings was Cone deeptone denim. And we soon became the leading manufacturer of this famous fabric.

Next came corduroy. Once the fabric of kings, it became just as popular among Americans of all ages.

But Cone didn't stop there. In fact, denim and corduroy are just two of the many fabrics that have won acclaim for Cone Mills in its 81 year history.

Today, with 22 modern plants, Cone creates a whole line of quality fabrics for casualwear, sportswear, sleepwear, uniforms and career apparel. Fabrics for home-decorating and home-sewing--even polyurethane foam--are now a part of the Cone family of products.

The almost 14,500 employees of Cone Mills are proud of their part in creating the basic fabrics that are the backbone of American casual fashion...and proud of the freedom each fabric gives you.

Prime Time is now. We've tried to fit the pieces of the puzzle together, a puzzle that tells the story of our school. We couldn't help but hope, after all the things we've done, that we've left behind something more than chewing gum on the bottom of desks. Although one phase of Prime Time has been completed, there lies ahead a whole lifetime of prime experiences.

If it's magic . . .
Then why can't it be everlasting
Like the sun that always shines
Like the poets endless rhyme
Like the galaxies in time

If it's pleasing . . .
Then why can't it be never leaving
Like the day that never fails
Like on seashores there are shells
Like the time that always tells

It holds the key to every heart
Throughout the universe
It fills you up without a bite
And quenches every thirst

So . . .
If it's special
Then with it why aren't we as careful
As making sure we dress in style
Posing pictures with a smile
Keeping danger from a child

So . . .
If it's magic
Why can't we make it everlasting
Like the lifetime of the sun
It will leave no heart undone
For there's enough for everyone

Dear A.J.,

What's happening? Uh huh? Long time no see, uh? I don't think of anything to say. It's easier to write & you know what I mean, for me to write than to talk. Ha ha. Well ya the last few months have been quite annuals. I wish ya the best of luck, of course I mean? I wish it could be luck, but I don't need luck at Duke, do I? Ha ha. Well good luck at college. Challenger doesn't it? Ha ha. Thanks much for the SENIORS pep rally. Love ya lots,

Tina

P.S. Have a happy Christmas and a prosperous New Year.

Dear A.J.,

What's happening best male athelete? I never thought I'd see so many pictures of one person in an annual. You ought to win that award too. I seriously want to thank you for all the good times we've had and I want you to forget the bad. I know you will succeed in everything you try. You are a born winner. Good luck always. Remember me.

Love,
TINA

A. J.,
Remember when it was "Apple Juice"
in the 8th grade.
That was funny.
You're such a great athlete. I wish you lots and lots of luck with it next year at Duke. I hope to be able to come and see you play some. That will sure seem weird for it not to be at J. K. Malone Stadium. I can't believe that we're graduating! I'll be glad to leave but sad at the thought of not seeing some of the people next year. I can't wait to see everyone at the 10 year reunion.
Be sweet and lots of luck in the future.
Love,
Delana

I have yours too
but I haven't you known but a great long, like really great seem like you have guy! I hope you to G.H.S. is and sports. Hope all success at Duke best of luck at

Dear Mr. A.S. Tullinger
Even though you wrote that about my baseball career in my annual I will forgive you. For the first place you are cruel but I hope you have a good season at Duke. You were a fellow a joy and always remember "Stay sweet Pop"

A.J.,

Just think our senior year is almost at a end, we finally made it. You've a great guy in everything you do. Sports mostly! Stay a Devil and keep that great spirit. Remember me when you're down at Duke, you're going from a Red Devil to a Blue Devil, ha! ha! thought you'd like that. I don't guess it was enough for you to be close to Southern and Sam Story so now I see that you've Taking him with you. I hope I get to see you some this summer. One thing if you wouldn't mind I'd like to have your address at Duke next year, all people should keep in touch let that be us. When you get bored at Duke just down to East Carolina and we'll find some action.

Don't forget our great Accounting Class and that wild homeroom. And you know we'll be acting really close to each other on graduation, doesn't that excite you (only kidding). You've been a great friend and I love to pick on you. Stay as sweet as you are and never change. Don't ever forget and always remember me, for let's always stay friends. Of course I know something that you don't think I know, but we'll just keep that between me and you. Thanks for everything. I wish you more than anything in this world a great future and also a great like time. Best of luck at Duke and play your best. Word ever forget you.

Love and Love ya!

How's it going?

Well I don't know what to say. You're crazy and fun to be around. You're always trying to trip me out. (You usually do!) I like it. I'll miss you next year but I'll come and see you at Duke. I hope you figure out what that green thing is on your chest, because I want to know. I don't care what you say but I didn't tell you to jump in a bowl of ~~poop~~ piranhas either. Well I'll talk to you later! friend forever & ever.

Well what can I say? Alot, I guess. I finally found someone who was a bigger trip than I was. Or should I say bigger- ha! No, seriously you're not. You are a great athlete though and don't forget me when you're at Duke cause I'm no matter what anyone else your "No 1" fan no matter what anyone else says. I really wish you the best of luck next year and if you ever have any problems maybe I can help. You seem to help me alot with those hard to understand, big word speeches. But I enjoyed listening to them. Well remember I (illegible)

P.S.

I really enjoy hearing from you. Hearing from my homeboy. It was very nice seeing a good old friend. Miami vice. Don't you do anything but party? Have you been studying hard? Well I'll let you get back to your homework. Don't do too much partying. Have a nice day.

A.J.,

I really appreciate your friendship these last couple of years. You are a swell guy and are extremely crazy. On those days when we didn't play in Stage Band, and the ones that you actually stayed in class, you made it wild and funny. You are a great athelete with a great personality toward everyone, which is a combination hard to find. I wish you the best of luck in all of your endevors. Your friend,

Always good living.

When you get at Duke and go up against the tough Tar Heels, then take it easy on them. Good luck at Duke and don't get hurt.

AJ,

I really don't know where to start. It has really been great knowing you these past years. Graham would have never been the same without you there in the spot light! We had a great time at Gymnastic last year. You are a great person to know, even when you say something really stupid! Good Luck next year at school. I hope to hear and read a lot about you in sports, Good Luck Always,

Friends Forever,

Bobbie

a.g.,

I can barely remember my seventh grade year when I heard of a fantastic football player. I never thought I would come to know a hero - but I'm glad I did. I no longer think of you as a "hero" but as a great person and friend. I've been rooting for you for 4 years now and you bet I'll continue. At Duke you'll rush 6,000 yards and take them to the Rose Bowl! Please behave and don't forget your loyal fans in Durham.

Love ya!

Shawn

a.g.,

Your head is already so big I'm scared to say anything complimentary because whatever I say you'll say "I KNOW!" You had a great high school career & I hope you especially enjoyed your Senior yr. Good luck with whatever you do in life. BEAT DOOK if you flunk out. When you look back on this 20 years from now - it'll be hard to believe. Don't forget Madraso's weasel experiment!

Best wishes,

Molly Rogers

A.J.
To a nice guy who is a super football player also & good basketball player. Hope you have a great career at Duke. Maybe I'll see you at Duke. Tennis for Duke.

A.J.,

It was really fun being your partner this year in Biology. (I'm sure Sheila will never forget it!)

You'll be gone next year, & I want to wish you the best of luck always. Duke's really in for it. Have fun. God bless you.

A Friend Always,

Tammy Cook

A.J.,

I can never tell you how much your friendship has meant to me. You've always been around when I needed someone to talk to or yell at. I just want to thank you for everything! I'll always remember the way you'll listen to me when I'm down, and always cheer me up. I hope our friendship will continue forever; I know it will on my part. Good Luck at Duke next year! You'd better come home to see me once in a while. I don't know what I'll do without you! I won't have anybody to talk to. Oh well, be good and ~~kap~~ keep out of trouble. Think of me often and just call if you need me- I'll always be there. Remember, I love you!

Renee

P.S. Always,
keep people Tonya

A.J.,

I'm glad I was your friend for so many years. I know you're going to do very well at Duke because you've been a good athlete all-around. I'll miss you a lot this year. I'll go far at Duke because you have been a good friend to me and one of the most understanding people I've ever met. Keep your sense of humor and good heart. You'll become a good friend to many people.

Always,
Jenny

P.S. I've got the best roommate in the world. You are a great person. I think so much of you.

Dear Cuz,
Even though we're cousins, we didn't get to know each other until this year. I'm very glad we got to know one another better because I think you're a very sweet guy. Even as a cousin, you mean a lot to me and I'll probably miss you when you go to college. Don't forget all the people (especially me) who went to school with you when you become a big star. Good luck in the future & best wishes. Always remember me,

Love,

I can't believe it's finally happening to us: we're graduating! It's been fun cheering for you, cause you were always the center of interest on the football team. I want to wish you the very, very best of luck next year at Duke. I hope you'll remember me at some of those games, cause I'll be there rooting for you! Hope you have a good season.

Friends Always,

Mr. Avery Norwood Trollinger, Jr.

We have been together for many years. Ever since we were in kindergarden we were in the same school. We used to ride the bus together. When we were in the 4th grade we had a boyfriend problem. You liked Jason (smile) and I was crazy about Jason. We had some good times and some bad times. We have grown up together and we are still friends. Maybe as I am, (smile) I am glad we had a boyfriend problem at the same time because it helped our friendship grow stronger. I am very happy that you got out of the middle school years with me. We have been through almost everything else. We have been in the same school and we will be for this remainder of our high school years. We have been in the same school and we will be for this remainder of our high school years. We have been in the same school and we will be for this remainder of our high school years
